Mt. Sir Donald and Illecillewaet River Glacier, B.C.

<https://archives.whyte.org/en/permalink/artifactmrt.05.04>

Artist:	Thomas Mower Martin, R. C. A. (1838 – 1934, Canadian)
Title:	Mt. Sir Donald and Illecillewaet River Glacier, B.C.
Date:	1900
Medium:	watercolour on paper
Dimensions:	67.0 x 49.0 cm

Description:	This painting features a mountain range and a river. The upper half of the work contains the mountains. There is a peak in the tlc, and in front of this peak, cut off by the left border, stretches a brownish mountain which reaches diagonally to the right and merges with the rest of the range. This range hosts a glacier. The river portion of the painting is separated from the mountains by a row of tall evergreen trees which appear to follow the river, in front of these trees are small leafy bushes, and then rocks by the shore of the river. In the brc, the river is interrupted by large rocks, which create a small series of falls. The river exits the painting along the whole bottom of the work.

Untitled (Mount Temple)

<https://archives.whyte.org/en/permalink/artifactmrt.05.03>

Artist:	Thomas Mower Martin, R. C. A. (1838 – 1934, Canadian)
Title:	Untitled (Mount Temple)
Date:	c. 1903
Medium:	watercolour on paper
Description:	A horizontal picture. The painting features a large mountain which is located in the centre and right side of picture in the background. This mountain takes up 2/3 of the picture. The mountain is lightly covered with snow, and light brown rock shows underneath. The sky is filled with grey clouds and near the mountain portions of blue sky show through these clouds. On the left side of the work, still in the background, a smaller mountain stretches to the right and turns into a valley with a small pool of water at its base near the centre of the painting. The foreground contains the rocks and sparse trees of a mountain, and looks into the base of the valley.
