CANNON RUSH AT PRINCETON

Time-Honored Contest Won by Freshman Class After a Fierce Struggle.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 23.—The annual cannon rush between the freshman and sophomore classes, a custom which has been honored from year to year since away back in the fifties was held to-night in the quadrangle back of Nassau Hall. The freshmen greatly outnumbered the sophomores and won the rush after a terrific struggle.

[1901] got together early in the evening and clustered around the cannon twenty deep, with loaded arms, to await the onslaught of the freshmen. The juniors collected the freshmen from the dormitories and formed them in a compact mass in front of Blair Hall, and when all was ready started them on the run toward the cannon. The boys came together with a crash that could be heard blocks away, and for the next ten minutes pandemonium reigned. The sophomores had a reserve position lying in wait behind the library, and the late arrival of the freshmen sent the first line of the freshman band straight up to the cannon, and then they struck despite the efforts of the sophomores to dislodge them. First few merrily on the outskirts, but beyond a few black eyes and bloody noses no one was injured. The freshmen were jubilant over the outcome of the rush.

THE GAMES AT PRINCETON

Mrs. Cleveland Watches the Contest of the Track Team.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 15.—The annual fall handball games of the Princeton Track team were held here to-day. No fast time was made, owing to the cold and strong gale. Mrs. Cleveland watched the contests. J. P. Cressen in the 600-yard run made the best performance, finishing in fine shape in front of a large field. Summary:

100-Yard Dash—Won by P. V. Woodbridge, '02, (seventh) second, R. Johnson, '02, (2 yards) third, A. Lantz, (3 yards) Time—16.4.
200-Yard Dash—Won by J. P. Cressen, '02, (seventh) second, J. Anderson, third, A. Lantz, Time—1:22.
500-Yard Dash—Won by P. A. Moore, '02, only participant. Time—5:05.
800-Yard Dash—Won by A. K. Von Krug, '02, (18 inches) actual jump 19 feet 4 inches; second, P. A. Moore, '02, (12 inches) third, G. W. Curtis, '02, (3 inches).
High Jump—Won by P. A. Moore, '02, (10 inches) actual jump 10 feet 10 inches; second, J. Anderson, '02, (7 inches) third, R. W. Curtis, '02, (4 inches).

Fall Games of the Tigers.

PRINCETON, Oct. 15.—The annual fall handball games of the Princeton University Track Association were held this afternoon on the varsity field. The track was very heavy, and the weather was so cold that most of the tracks did not compete. This made the sport slow and uninteresting. Summary:

100-Yard Dash—Won by Woodbridge, '02, seventh; R. Johnson, '02, 2 yards, second; A. D. Davis, '02, 3 yards, third. Time, 16.4 seconds.
200-Yard Dash—Won by Cressen, '02, seventh; J. P. Cressen, '02, 2 yards, second; A. D. Davis, '02, 3 yards, third. Time, 1:22 seconds.
500-Yard Dash—Won by P. A. Moore, '02, only participant. Time, 5:05 seconds.
800-Yard Dash—Won by A. K. Von Krug, '02, (18 inches) actual jump 19 feet 4 inches; second, P. A. Moore, '02, (12 inches) actual jump 17 feet 4 inches; third, G. W. Curtis, '02, (3 inches) actual jump 17 feet.
High Jump—Won by P. A. Moore, '02, (10 inches) actual jump 10 feet 10 inches; second, J. Anderson, '02, (7 inches) actual jump 7 feet 10 inches; third, R. W. Curtis, '02, (4 inches) actual jump 7 feet.

DECISION IN REFERENCE TO FRESHMEN WEARING HATS. 1901

A joint meeting of the officers of the four classes and the Hazing Committee was held yesterday, at 12 o'clock, in Murray Dodge Hall. The purpose of the meeting was to decide the time when Freshmen may wear hats. It was decided that no member of the Freshman Class shall wear a slouch hat of any kind in Princeton before becoming a Sophomore, and that the members of the Freshman Class may wear straw hats on and after the third Saturday in May, which this year comes on the eighteenth. It was agreed to insert this rule with the college customs.

TO DO AWAY WITH HAZING. 1901

PRINCETON STUDENTS DECIDE TO GIVE UP THE CUSTOM.

The Storm Helped the Freshmen, Who Have Been Snowballed Mercilessly—Resolutions Adopted and a Committee Appointed to See That They Are Enforced.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 1.—The wave of reform that has been passing over Princeton University reached a culminating point to-night at a mass-meeting of undergraduates in Alexander Hall. It was voted that hazing in all its forms must forever cease. The students took this action of their own accord, without any promptings from the faculty. Since 1894, when the faculty forced the issue by threatening to expel several of the best football players unless hazing were stopped, thereby hastening Princeton's chances in the intercollegiate contests, there has been no hazing at Princeton of the brutal type. Recently roving bands of sophomores, with plenty of time on their hands, have never missed an opportunity of dodging the professors and dropping in unexpectedly on some unsuspecting freshman, who perhaps had been making himself unobtrusively conspicuous, and putting him through a series of harmless "stunts" such as doing a song and dance, making a speech extolling his own virtues, or cheering for the sophomore class.

The last snowstorm brought great joy to the sophomores. In accordance with a time-honored, unwritten law, they are permitted to snowball the freshmen, who have no right to retaliate. Every day, from the time the bell rang for morning chapel until after the last recitation at night, the sophomores have been hard at it, urging the hapless freshmen, not even allowing them to take their meals in peace. The second-year men upheld the old custom so rigorously that they overreached themselves, and the new conditions of undergraduate life at Princeton are directly traceable to the early snowstorms.

The movement originated with the senior and junior classes, who appointed a committee to draw up a set of resolutions outlining the prerogatives of the lower classesmen, their relations with one another and providing for an undergraduate court to try cases and pronounce penalties. The resolutions were then presented to the freshmen class and were adopted with a rush that left no doubt as to the fervent state of the freshmen. When the resolutions were submitted to the sophomores at a meeting yesterday there was a good deal of opposition shown. Whether the better element in the class predominated or whether the majority of the class had more arms and therefore could not stand so long, is not known, as the meeting was secret, but the resolutions were adopted and were enthusiastically raised and cheered by the freshmen. The resolutions, which will be enforced with all the vigor that characterizes the honor system in examinations, are as follows:

"Inasmuch as the custom of hazing in all its forms is a demoralizing practice, involving an unreasonable and intolerable interference on the part of one student in the rights and privileges of his fellow student, and inasmuch as the practice has been carried to an unwarranted and baneful extreme, endangering thereby the position and standing of certain men who are proud of the university, and exerting a most damaging influence on the university's interest and reputation in the outside world, we, the undersigned, do hereby resolve:

"Therefore, we would recommend that all forms of hazing be abolished entirely and that the students, inasmuch as they are bound to declare themselves in full sympathy with such a movement and to promote their cooperation and support in enforcing the same, do hereby, in carrying out this purpose, we would suggest that the following method be pursued:

"First—At the meeting of the freshmen class the Chairman of the committee heretofore provided for shall announce that while the sentiment of the university is opposed to hazing, yet the freshmen class will be expected to observe the usual customs of the university.

"Second—It will be understood that, aside from an instance of the enforcement of the time-honored college customs by the process hereinafter provided for, any molestation or intimidation or of dictation to the members of the freshmen class on the part of the sophomores shall be considered hazing.

"Third—Members of all classes shall have the right to appeal to the committee heretofore provided for for the enforcement of these resolutions, including an observance of the customs in any particular instance that may come before their notice.

"Fourth—There shall be a committee on hazing, composed of the following five persons: The Vice-President of the two upper classes, the editor-in-chief of the Princetonian, and the manager and assistant manager of the Varsity shall be the members of this committee. It shall be to decide all questions arising in the interpretation of these resolutions. They shall summon before them all members of the freshmen class who are accused of violating the terms of these resolutions, investigate the charges, and if the sophomores are found guilty, shall refer the case with all evidence bearing upon it to the faculty. They shall summon before them all men whose testimony is desired in the consideration of cases.

These resolutions shall go into effect immediately upon their adoption.

In the past a freshman was not permitted to wear golf trousers, nor sport the colors, to carry a cane, to wear duck trousers until the first Harvard game, to smoke a pipe, to enter the grand stand at the baseball grounds, to be seen on the streets after 10 o'clock at night, to enter any saloon or poolroom, to play ball on the campus, and, finally, he was expected to yield the sidewalk to everybody but the freshmen.

COLLEGE OF NEW JERSEY.

REGULATIONS CONCERNING REGISTRATION.

At the beginning of the College year each undergraduate student shall report in person at the Registrar's Office, before 1 P. M. of the first Thursday of the term, and register

- a. his full name, home address and College address—
- b. his choice of electives for the term.

Entering students shall register when they matriculate.

After the Thanksgiving recess, the Christmas vacation, and the Easter recess, the student shall report in person at the Registrar's Office, before 5 P. M. of the day on which exercises are resumed, and register his name.

The choice of electives for the second term must be reported in writing to the Registrar, on or before the third Monday in January.

The student who does not register in accordance with the above rules will not be allowed to register until he has received special permission from his class officer.

In every case of delay in registration the student's gratuity shall be reduced by three for each day that the registration is delayed. Serious cases shall be punished by postponement of the registration with corresponding reduction of the gratuity, by putting the student on probation, by suspension, or otherwise as the Faculty may determine. The penalty for delay in reporting the full list of electives for the term shall be the reduction of the gratuity by one each day for each elective not reported, until the list is complete; this delay to be reckoned from the registration at the beginning of the College year or from the third Monday in January. Serious cases shall be punished more severely as the Faculty may determine. If the student enter any elective class after exercises with that class have been held, he shall be reported by the instructor as absent from those exercises.

OLD NASSAU.

- 1 Tune every heart and every voice,
Bid every care withdraw;
Let all with one accord rejoice,
In praise of Old Nassau.

Chorus.

In praise of Old Nassau, my boys,
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
Her sons will give while they shall
Three cheers for Old Nassau. [live.]

- 2 Let music rule the fleeting hour,
Her mantle round us draw;
And thrill each heart with all her
In praise of Old Nassau. [power.]

- 3 Till then with joy our songs we'll
And while a breath we draw, [bring,
We'll all unite to shout and sing,
Long life to Old Nassau.

TRIANGLE SONG.

- 1 Sing a song together boys, we'll sing
it loud and clear,
Sing it with a hearty will and voices
full of cheer,
Sing it as we used to sing way back in Freshman year,
While we were marching through
Princeton.

Chorus.

Nassau! Nassau! Ring out the chorus
free,
Nassau! Nassau! Thy jolly sons are we,
Cars shall be forgotten, all our sorrows flung away,
While we are marching thro' Princeton.

- 2 Well the old Triangle knew the music
of our tread,
How the peaceful Seminole would tremble in his bed,
How the gates were left unhinged, the lamps without a head,
While we were marching through
Princeton.

- 3 Yes, and there were maidens, too, that heard our footsteps beat,
While the moonlight shone along the still deserted street,
We woke so, them the echoes with our serenading sweet,
While we were marching through
Princeton.

THE ORANGE AND THE BLACK

- 1 Although Yale has always favored
The violet's dark blue,
And the many sons of Harvard
To the crimson rose are true,
We will own the lilies slender,
Nor honor shall they lack,
While the Tiger stands defender,
Of the Orange and the Black.

- 2 Through the four long years of college
Midst the scenes we love so well
As the mystic charm to knowledge
We vainly seek to spell,
On we win athletic victories
On the base-ball field or track,
Still we work for dear old Princeton
And the Orange and the Black.

- 3 When the cares of life o'er take us,
Mingling fast our locks with gray,
Should our dearest hopes betray us,
False fortunes fall away,
Still we'll banish care and sadness,
As we turn our memories back,
And recall those days of gladness,
'Neath the Orange and the Black.

If you don't know them LEARN 'EM!

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 10, 1898.

MY DEAR SIE: Madam

The request that your son be allowed to spend his Sundays at home is received. The Faculty have, however, observed that the privilege has been abused by a number of students to whom it has been granted. They have remained in Princeton and absented themselves from Sunday services here. Your request will be granted, but the Faculty desire me to say that they rely upon your efforts to see that the privilege is not abused in the way mentioned.

INTERCOLLEGIATE GYMNASTICS AT COLUMBIA.

Princeton gymnasts in the number of sixteen, are at Columbia University, practicing in the gymnasium for the triple exhibition to be given there Friday evening by Columbia, Yale and Princeton.

The men did not expect to come to New York until Friday, but the recent small-pox scare at their college gave them a good excuse for leaving at this time. Herbert Wheeler, of the class of 1900, full-back on the football team, is captain, and puts his men through their paces twice a day in the gymnasium. Their specialties are single and double trapeze performances, and double trapeze performances, and double trapeze performances, and double trapeze performances.

The team is as follows: Herbert Wheeler, Captain, '98; Ralston '98; Wheeler, '98; Parker '98; Mountain '98; Jones '98; Laughlin '98; Moore '98; Katsenbach '98; Jones '98; O'Connell '98; Hay '98; Savage '98; Turner '98.

Yale's team will reach New York Friday morning.

GYMNASTIC. '99

Annual Joint Meeting at Princeton University.

Princeton, N. J., Feb. 22.—The annual joint indoor meet of the university track team and the gymnastic team was held in the gymnasium this afternoon. The gymnastic team is one of the best that Princeton has ever developed, and the exhibition was one of an unusually high order. The meets which are to be held with Yale and Columbia next month consequently promise to be very interesting. The material which the Freshman Class be a great addition, especially in tumbling and acrobatics, while Savage gave a good exhibition of club swinging. Finks and Berger, the crack trapezists, graduated last year, but Mountain and Katsenbach, who succeeded them on the double trapeze, are quite skillful.

The annual wrestling matches between the Sophomore and Freshman classes were held in connection with the exhibition, the Sophomores winning both the light and heavy weight events, and thereby the match. Gresham Poe, a younger brother of Arthur Poe, who made the sensational run in the Yale game last year, and who performed the unusual feat of winning both the middle and light weight wrestling matches for his class, won more honor for the family by defeating Harvey, '01, in 2 minutes and 14 seconds. The contest between the light weight contestants was the most exciting, requiring three bouts to decide it. Granger, the Sophomore representative, won from Coleman, '02; Mattis, '01, defeated Pell, '02, in the heavy weight contest. The summary follows:

Running high jump.—Won by Carrish, '99, scratch, actual jump, 5 feet 10 1/2 inches; second, Curtis, '02, 3 1/2 inches, actual jump, 5 feet 6 inches; third, Johnson, '02, 4 inches, actual jump, 5 feet 2 inches. Standing broad jump.—Won by Johnson, '02, 4 inches, actual jump, 5 feet 6 inches; Kratz, '00, 4 inches, actual jump, 5 feet 3 inches; Jarvis, '00, scratch, actual jump, 5 feet 1 1/2 inches.

Putting 12 pound shot.—Won by Botzger, '00, scratch, actual put, 45 feet 14 inches; second, Wright, '02, 4 feet, actual put, 29 feet 6 inches; third, Kratz, '00, 5 feet, actual put, 27 feet 10 inches.

The events of the gymnastic exhibition were as follows:

Triple horizontal bars by the team.—Firing trapeze, Wheeler, '00, and Laughlin, '00. Club swinging, Savage, '02. Balancing trapeze, Snyder, '00. Double trapeze, Mountain, '00, and Katsenbach, '01. Ballon swinging, Parker, '00. Tumbling and acrobatics by the team.

The acrobatic work of Jones, Moore and Olla, all of '02, was the pleasing feature of the exhibition, and they were accorded the distinction by the spectators as being the best amateur acrobats ever seen in this vicinity. The members of the gymnastic team are Herbert Wheeler, '00, Captain; C. H. Parker, '01; J. G. Ralston, '00; P. P. Eckings, '00; W. F. Mountain, '00; T. J. Snyder, '00; H. H. Laughlin, '00; E. S. Feagles, '00; L. E. Katsenbach, '01; W. A. Coulter, '02; P. K. Hay, '02; P. V. Jones, '02; P. O. Moore, '02; H. G. Olla, '02; Savage, '02.

There has been a wedding out among the gym candidates, and the team that will represent Princeton in the coming meets has been selected. It consists of Parker, 1899; Eckings, 1899; Ralston, 1899; Wheeler, 1900 (captain); Mountain, 1900; Laughlin, 1900; Snyder, 1900; Feagles, 1900; Katsenbach, 1901; Moore, 1902; Olla, 1902; Coulter, 1902; Jones, 1902, and Hay, 1902. A great deal of earnest preparation is being made for the annual exhibition as Washington's Birthday, in the gymnasium, at 2:30 P. M. The team is practicing three nights a week, in addition to the regular afternoon drill. The following programme has been arranged for February 22: Triple horizontal bar, gymnasium team; firing trapeze, Wheeler, 1900, and Laughlin; club swinging, Savage, 1902; double trapeze, Mountain, 1900, and Katsenbach, 1901; ballon swinging, Parker, 1900; balancing, Olla, 1902; Snyder, 1900; tumbling, gymnasium team.

TRACK AND GYMNASTIC EXHIBITION.

The annual mid-winter joint exhibition of the Track Athletic and Gymnastic associations was given at 3 o'clock in the gymnasium. The work of the gymnastic team, considering the number of new men, was excellent. The flying trapeze by Capt. Wheeler '00, and H. H. Laughlin '00, the double trapeze by W. F. Mountain '00, and L. E. Katsenbach '01, the baton swinging by C. H. Parker '00, and the tumbling of Jones '02, Moore '02, and O'Connell '02, were especially well received.

The following is the summary of the athletic events:

Running High Jump.—Won by W. C. Carroll '00 (scratch), height, 5 feet to 1-4 inches; second, G. W. Curtis '02 (3 1-2 inches), height, 5 feet 6 inches; third, L. E. Johnson '02, (6 inches).

Standing Broad Jump.—Won by L. E. Johnson '02 (6 inches), distance, 9 feet 6 1-4 inches; second, M. H. Kratz '00 (4 inches), distance, 9 feet three inches; third, F. Jarvis '00 (scratch).

Putting 12 lb. shot.—Won by W. E. Botzger '00 (scratch), distance, 45 feet 1 3-4 inches; second, R. G. Wright '02, distance, 43 feet 6 inches; third, M. H. Kratz '00.

The Sophomores were victorious in the annual Sophomore-Freshman wrestling contest. The lightweight contest was very evenly contested for two five-minute rounds, but at the end of the third round, A. W. Granger '01, secured a good hold and quickly threw his opponent, A. W. Coleman '02. In the middleweight, G. H. Poe '02, threw C. F. Harvey '01, in the first round. The heavyweight contest was also short. G. M. Mattis '01, throwing H. W. Pell '02, soon after the opening of the first round.

The officials were—Referee, Robert Garrett '97. Measurers, J. F. Cregan '99, Keith Donaldson '99, and Walter Christie. Judge of Wrestling, Walter Christie. Timekeeper, George Goldie. Scorer, W. C. Booth '00.

WORK OF THE TRACK TEAM.

Crone-Country Runs Will Be Resumed
This Week—Candidates for the Base Ball Team to Be Called Out in a Few Days.

Special Dispatch to "The Press."

Princeton, N. J., Feb. 4.—The examination which have taken up the entire attention of the University for the last ten days will close this coming Wednesday, and the peculiar stillness that has dominated athletics, especially track and base ball work, during this time, will give place to the more normal conditions of out-door training and cage practice.

The gymnasts have been an exception, for the coming meet with Columbia, which is not far distant and the regular indoor games on Washington's birthday, have kept the "gym" team at fairly active work. The meet on February 22 bids fair to be a very successful one, judging from the large number of men who have entered, also from the number of events on the programme, some of which are the double trapeze, flying trapeze, lachette, baton swinging, club juggling and swinging, balancing trapeze, horizontal bars and tumbling. The principal event before the meet in New Haven, at the end of March, is the exhibition with Columbia and Yale in New York on March 13. Manager Huey has been handling the last few days, and it is his efforts that brought about the Columbia meet.

The leading candidates who will likely figure in the coming contests are as follows: Balancing trapeze, Schneider; baton swinging, Parker, M. Parker is such an artist with the baton as to be in great demand on all occasions where campus rallies are appropriate. The hilarity after victories over Harvard and Yale in base ball and foot ball testify to the adroitness of this youth.

Some candidates from the Freshman Class are trying for club swinging and juggling. In the horizontal bar event and tumbling there are a large number of men, among whom are Mountain, 190; Huletton, 79; Katzenbach, 181; Pegler, 180; Edding, 79; Ols, 192; Coulter, 192; Hay, 192; Moore, 192; Jones, 192, and Captain Wheeler. For the double trapeze, Katzenbach, 190, and Mountain, 190, are the leading candidates. These two men are among the stars of the team and have shown a great improvement over the men who held this position last year. Laughlin, 190, Wheeler, 190; Pegler, 190, are working on the flying trapeze. Laughlin was in the same event last year, while Wheeler represented the team in the event for two years, so the team is likely to be strong at this point. Lachette is being worked up, especially for the Columbia exhibition, and the men in this event are Mountain, 190; Wheeler, 190, and Coulter, 192. The work of the men in the "three high" event is of a high order. Jones, Moore and Ols are working at this for the New York meet, while Wheeler, Katzenbach and Koter will be in the same event at the Yale exhibition.

STOLE A FRESHMAN.

Princeton "Sophs" Got Frightened and Returned Eldridge to His Friends.

G. Balton Eldridge, 1902, of Princeton, who was kidnapped by some Sophomores last night, was delivered to his classmates this morning.

He was kidnapped by the Sophomores so that the under-graduates might lose the cane spree scheduled for this morning.

Faculty and upper-class men were angry over the "Sophie" prank, and it was threatened that unless Eldridge appeared in time for the spree to-day all those concerned in the kidnapping would go from Princeton forever in disgrace.

All night Eldridge's friends searched for him.

After his return this morning the cane spree went on. Eldridge represented his class, and the contest resulted in a tie.

CALEDONIAN GAMES.

Freshmen Win With 35 2-3 Points.
Juniors Second With 36 1-2 Points.

The annual Caledonian Games were held yesterday afternoon at the University Field. The contests were all high class; special features were the 100 yards dash made in 10 seconds by Jarvis, and the fine race put up by Chamberlain '02, in which he tied with Palmer for second place in the mile. The pole-vaulting was also good. Coleman '02, clearing 10 feet 5 inches, against nine feet 2 inches last year.

The Class of 1902 won first place, with a total of 38½ points; 1900 was second, with 36½ points; '99 won 24½ points; and 1901, 11½ points.

The winners of the various events, with their times and distances, are given below:

TIGER ATHLETES ARRIVE TO-DAY.

The Big Dual Meet Will Occur
To-morrow.

CORNELL VS. PRINCETON.

The Meeting is of the Utmost Importance and Means Much in the Future
Athletic Councils-The City is Gaily Decorated.

Rain or shine, the big dual athletic meet between Cornell and Princeton will occur to-morrow at the Maple Avenue park. Both teams are in the prime of condition and will come to Elmira prepared to "battle for their lives." The Tigers will come over the Lehigh in a special train arriving in this city at 5 o'clock this afternoon. They will be met by the reception committee and escorted to the Rathman, where they will be quartered during their stay in Elmira. At 10 o'clock to-night the first delegation of Cornell men will arrive over the Lehigh and will go either to the Rathman or Langwell.

This is the first time that Cornell and Princeton have come together in track athletics. It is a meeting of the utmost importance and means much in the future athletic councils of both universities. Having never met it is hard to get a line on the two teams. A lot of Cornell money came to town this morning to be bet, at even money that Cornell would win and more is expected to-night and to-morrow. Comparing man for man, however, it seems that Princeton has the best chance of winning and those who are willing to back the Tigers may not regret it at the conclusion of the meet to-morrow. The work of Captain Cregan of Princeton, who won the intercollegiate championship at New York Saturday, in the half mile run, and that of Jarvis, who was but four inches behind Tewksbury in the 100, and Cregan, was of such a high order that there is every reason why Princeton stock should boom. The Cornell captain, however, is suspected of having several surprises up his sleeve and Cornell men who are on the hands appear confident.

The decorations around town are most elaborate and by to-night the city will be a sea of orange and black and red and white. Stores which anticipated the demand and bought a stock of college flags have been rushed with business and street fakirs have commenced to make their appearance with colors and badges. The horns will have a lively sale and Elmira will become a regular college town.

The games will commence at 2:30 sharp and will take place rain or shine. The Queen City band, augmented by the addition of a number of eminent soloists for the occasion, will discourse sweet music during the afternoon. Among the numbers will be a variety of Cornell and Princeton airs.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon but three boxes of the large number originally placed on sale remained undisposed of. When these are sold no more seats will be reserved and those who wish seats in the grandstand will be obliged to go early and avoid the rush.

DUAL TRACK MEET.

Princeton defeats California in the Dual Track Meet on Saturday. Score 10 points to 2.

The dual track meet between Princeton and the University of California which was held Saturday morning on University Field resulted in a score of 10 to 2 in favor of the former, first place in each event counting one point.

Both teams were in excellent physical form and a bright, still day made the conditions of the meet almost perfect, while a hard, clean track made possible the remarkably fast time attained in nearly all the events. The Princeton track records for the 120 yards hurdle and the 220 yards hurdle were both equalled by R. F. Hutchinson 1902, who ran the former in 16 1-5 seconds and the latter in 26 1-4 seconds, and the record for the pole vault was broken by A. W. Coleman 1902, by three and one-eighth inches in a vault of 11 feet 1-7-8 inches and by D. S. Horton 1903, who cleared 11 feet 1-2 inches. A. Plaw of the

CAPT. W. F. DRUM, CALIFORNIA.

University of California threw the 16-pound hammer 151 feet 10 inches, which exceeds the intercollegiate record held by J. C. McCracken of the University of Pennsylvania by 2 feet 5 inches.

The events in order and the men winning first and second places are as follows:

100 Yds. Dash—Winner, F. W. Jarvis, P.; second, M. H. Kratz, P. Time, 10 seconds.
880 Yds. Run—Winner, J. M. Perry, P.; second, R. Service, U. of C. Time, 2 minutes 2 seconds.
120 Yds. Hurdle—Winner, R. F. Hutchinson, P.; second, H. Wheeler, P. Time, 16 1-5 seconds.
440 Yds. Run—Winner, J. F. Cregan, P.; second, W. P. Drum, U. of C. Time, 49 4-5 seconds.
220 Yds. Hurdle—Winner, R. F. Hutchinson, P.; second, H. Wheeler, P. Time, 26 1-5 seconds.
220 Yds. Run—Winner, M. H. Kratz, P.; second, H. W. Smith, P. Time, 22 4-5 seconds.
One Mile Run—Winner, J. F. Cregan, P.; second, J. M. Perry, P. Time, 4 minutes 41 3-4 seconds.

HAY'S BODY FOUND.

Memorial Services in Marquand Chapel. Resolutions Passed.

The body of Philip Kingsland Hay, who was drowned Sunday afternoon in the Millstone River, was found yesterday morning at 5 o'clock, in deep water about twenty feet from the stone pier of the Kingsland bridge, near which Augur's body was found the previous evening. The corpse was immediately brought to Princeton and placed in charge of the undertaker.

At 11:15 a.m. the coffin containing the body, was taken to Marquand Chapel. Memorial services were held at 11:30, being conducted by President Patton. The service was brief, consisting only of a prayer and the reading of a portion of the regular burial service, followed by a closing prayer. The coffin was then borne out slowly by the pall-bearers. The students, with heads uncovered, formed in line and marched to the railroad station, where the coffin was placed aboard the 12:10 train, which carried it to the home of the parents of the deceased, in Nutley, New Jersey, where funeral services will be held today.

The pall-bearers were W. F. Moomtain 1900, A. H. Mitchell 1900, Calvin Fentress 1901, F. L. Janeway 1901, John Aldin 1901, L. E. Katzenbach 1901, A. J. Barron 1902, R. T. Mount 1902, Isaac Hilliard 1902, Hugh Herndon 1902, Henry Adelt 1902, and P. A. Moore 1902.

The body of C. C. Augur has been embalmed and awaits removal at some time today. A memorial service, similar to the one of yesterday, will be held in Marquand Chapel previous to the departure of the body, but the hour has not yet been set, owing to an uncertainty as to the train on which it will be taken away. Further notice will be given in this morning's chapel services or later by the PRINCETONIAN bulletin.

TOKENS OF RESPECT.

The following resolutions of respect were passed yesterday:

CLASS OF 1902.

The Class of 1902 met yesterday and passed the following resolutions in memory of Christopher Colon Augur and Philip Kingsland Hay:

Resolutions.

Resolved, As it hath pleased Almighty God in His wise Providence to remove from us our beloved friends and classmates, Christopher Colon Augur and Philip Kingsland Hay, deeply endeared to us by their spirit of uniform kindness and sincerity, and

Whereas, Our class, in their untimely deaths, has suffered a great and keenly felt loss; be it

Resolved, That we, their classmates, extend to their families our deepest sympathy in their great sorrow, and that we wear a badge of mourning for thirty days as a mark of our affection and esteem for them whom Infinite Wisdom has taken; and be it

Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be presented to their families, and printed in the DAILY PRINCETONIAN and the Nassau Literary Magazine.

VARUNA CLUB.

In this sad hour we are bereft of two dearest friends and beloved comrades, Christopher Colon Augur and Philip Kingsland Hay. Faith in a Divine Providence alone, far seeing beyond our human understanding, can reconcile us to this irreparable loss.

Through two years of intimate association they have proved their noble characters and by their lovely and cheerful dispositions have endeared themselves to us in a fellowship as close as brotherhood. To all who have known them the beauty of their lives will forever hallow their memory.

Our consolation in our grief is that, blessed to us as examples of manliness and purity, they have found their reward. And our deepest sympathy goes out to their stricken families with whom we mourn in common.

A. J. Barron,
I. Hilliard,
R. T. Mount,
For the Varuna Club.
CAP AND GOWN CLUB.

At a meeting of the Cap and Gown Club, held yesterday afternoon, resolutions and expressions of esteem and sympathy were passed. The Club decided that these resolutions be published in the DAILY PRINCETONIAN, the Nassau Literary Magazine, and the Princeton Alumni Weekly. The members of the Club will wear crepe on the arm until the end of the College year, and a black band around the Club pin for six months.

The resolutions follow:
In the sudden and untimely death of Christopher Colon Augur 1902, and Philip Kingsland Hay 1902, the Cap and Gown Club, in the persons of those among whom they had become very dear, and of those with whom they were soon to become affiliated, has suffered a loss that is irreplaceable.

We who have known them closely and who had hoped for that privilege, unite together in this brief expression of our love and respect.

They were men who possessed to a rare degree those upright, manly and Christian qualities which command respect and in which true friendship finds its noblest expression.

We desire to express to the bereaved families our deep sorrow and sympathy, and the hope that He, who in His Divine Wisdom has removed their dear ones, will aid them in sustaining their affliction.

CALEDONIAN GAMES.

Winners in Inter-Class Games. Several Princeton Records Broken.

The annual Caledonian Games which were held yesterday afternoon on University Field immediately after the Princeton-Brown game, were won by the Class of 1902 with a total of 39 points; 1900 was a close second with a total of 36 points, 1903 third with 34 points, and 1901 fourth with 23 points. The events were all largely entered, and not a few of them were very closely contested, especially the 100 Yds. Dash and the One Mile Run. In the 120 Yds. Hurdle, R. F. Hutchinson 1902, covered the distance in 15 1-2 seconds, thereby reducing the Princeton track record of 16 1-2 seconds held by H. Wheeler 1900. A. W. Coleman 1902 vaulted 11 feet 4 inches in an exhibition vault which breaks the Princeton track record, which he held, of 11 feet 1 1-2 inches.

The following is a list of the events in order, and the winners of first, second, third, and fourth places:

100 Yds. Dash—Winner, H. W. Smith 1900; second, R. S. Hyde 1901; third, P. J. McElroy 1902; fourth, E. S. Birke 1900. Time, 10 1-2 sec.

DROWNING ACCIDENT.

P. K. Hay 1902 and C. C. Augur 1902 Drowned in the Millstone at Kingston

One of the saddest accidents which have occurred among the undergraduates since the death of Rowley Shephardson 1900, in the spring of '97, took place yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, at the Kingston dam on the Millstone River, two and one-half miles east of Princeton, resulting in the drowning of Christopher Colon Augur and Philip Kingsland Hay, both of the Class of 1902.

A party of five composed of D. B. Pfeiffer 1902, E. C. Rowe 1902, C. C. Augur 1902, P. K. Hay 1902, and his brother Kingsland Hay, left Princeton yesterday afternoon shortly after lunch, for a canoeing trip on the Millstone. They procured two canoes at Kingston, and paddled out into the stream above the Kingston dam with the intention of "shooting" it and floating down into the still water below. In the first canoe were Augur and Hay, both of whom were expert swimmers and accustomed to boating, and in the second were Pfeiffer, Rowe and Hay, Jr., who, shortly after putting out, decided to return to the shore. As they reached a launching place, below the dam, they saw the first canoe turn side to the current and throw its occupants head downward over the fall and directly under the head of the water which came rushing over from above. As they disappeared, the men in the canoe below the dam endeavored to paddle up to the place where the canoe had gone under, but were unable to make any headway against the swift current and could only wait for them to reappear below. Hay seems to have been caught in the eddy close to the dam and held under by the pounding water above. Augur, however, was carried swiftly down and reappeared a short distance above the bridge, but sank again almost immediately either from exhaustion or from an injury received on the rocks on the bottom of the stream. As soon as assistance arrived, a search for the bodies was begun and at six o'clock that of Augur was found in about five feet of water lodged against one of the stone piers of the bridge some distance below the scene of the accident. All efforts to find Hay's body last night proved fruitless, but another attempt will be made this morning.

Philip Kingsland Hay, 1902, of Nutley, New Jersey, was a graduate of the Newark Academy, of the class of '98. While in preparatory school he was a member of the Gynastic Team and on the Polymnial board. He entered the University in 1898. He became a member of the Cluosophic Society and in the spring of his Freshman year was elected to the editorial board of the Tiger. He was a member of the Princeton Gymnastic Team. He belonged to the Varuna Club and was recently elected to membership in the Cap and Gown Club. He was art editor of the 1902 Briefs-Brat. He was a student of high scholarship in the Scientific Department of the University and was very popular throughout the student body.

Christopher Colon Augur 1902, was a graduate of the Lawrenceville School of the Class of '98. He was prominent in debating and athletics at Lawrenceville, played on the baseball team and was a member of the Calloopean Society. His scholarship, while at preparatory school, was very high, and he was Scientific Orator on Class Day. His father is Major in the fourth United States Cavalry now stationed at Manila, Philippine Islands; his mother is at present in San Antonio, Texas. Augur entered the Scientific Department of the University in 1898. He became a member of the American Whig Society where he won second prize in the Freshman Debate and second prize in the Freshman Speaking Contest. In Sophomore year he was a School of Science honor man and was lately a candidate for the position of Assistant Manager of the Track Team. He held a prominent position in the Tennis Association and was an excellent player. He was a candidate for the undergraduate editorship of the Princeton Alumni Weekly. During the past year he has been a member of the Varuna Club and was recently elected to membership in the Cap and Gown Club. He was well known and well liked throughout the entire University.

PRINCETON BOYS DROWNED.

THEIR CANOE CAPSIZED AFTER IT HAD SHOT OVER A MILL DAM.

One of the Young Men a Grandson and Namesake of Gen. Christopher Colon Augur—The Other Philip Kingsland Hay of Nutley, N. J.—Hay's Brother a Witness of the Accident.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 20.—While attempting to shoot a dam in Millstone Creek, about two miles from Princeton, in a canoe this afternoon two sophomores of Princeton University were thrown into the water and drowned. They were Christopher Colon Augur of Evanston, Ill., 20 years old and Philip Kingsland Hay of Nutley, N. J., 19 years old. The former was the son of Major Augur of the Fourth United States Cavalry, stationed in the Philippines, and grandson of Gen. C. C. Augur.

After luncheon these two young men, in company with Edgar C. Howe of Evanston, Ill., and Damon B. Pfeiffer of Williamsport, Pa., also sophomores, and Kingsland Hay, Philip's younger brother, who had come to Princeton to spend the day, started for the creek. The party went to the university boathouse at the foot of Washington street, where the boys had their canoes stored, and at about 2 o'clock put out in the stream, floating down with the current. Philip Hay and Augur were in one canoe and the other three had another boat.

Owing to the recent heavy rain the creek was greatly swollen. About two miles from Princeton is a large dam in the creek which is utilized as a source of power by the Kingston Flour Mill. The party arrived at this place about 4 o'clock. The water going over the dam had a drop of only about eighteen inches, and as the boys had heard that other students had gone over safely they decided to make the attempt. Philip Hay and Augur took the lead while the other three stood on the bank to watch the trial. The canoe cleared the dam all right, but immediately afterward swung around sideways so that it caught the force of the current broadside on. It capsized and disappeared under the water with the boys beneath it. When several seconds later it came to the surface, about ten feet below the falls, the students were still out of sight.

The three boys on the bank ran to a stone bridge about fifty feet below the dam and when they reached it they saw Augur and Hay come to the surface, but only for an instant. One of the boys said that Augur, who was a powerful swimmer, tried to battle with the current, but it was too strong for him. Hay's brother on the bridge was frantic and the two students were obliged to hold him to prevent him from jumping into the stream. Boats and ropes were procured as soon as possible, but Hay and Augur did not appear again. The water below the dam is about ten feet deep.

Men with grappling irons began to work soon after the accident and in about two hours the body of Augur was pulled up a few feet above the bridge. Hay's body has not yet been found.

Hay and Augur were among the most popular men in their class, both having lately received election in the Cap and Gown Club. They were members of the sophomore club Varuna. Hay was a member of the gymnasium team and Augur was assistant manager of it. Hay was one of the editors of the Tiger. He was proposed for college at the Newark Academy, while Augur entered from Lawrenceville.

Young Augur was named for his grandfather, Gen. Augur, a distinguished soldier who was graduated at West Point in 1843 and served in both the Mexican War and the Civil War. The boy's father is Major Jacob Arnold Augur.

THE DROWNING.

The catastrophe of yesterday is the severest blow that the College has experienced since the shooting of Fred Ohl, five years ago. Its suddenness completely stuns one, and it must be some time before we can realize that these two men, with whom many of us have associated continually, are really gone.

Of the men themselves, we need say little; their lives during their stay here speak eloquently for them. They were good, clean, straightforward, manly men—the kind we delight to call "Princeton men", and we can think of no greater eulogy than that for any man.

We extend our heartfelt sympathy to their families in this terrible bereavement, to the class which has lost two of its best men, to the University at large in its general sorrow over the untimely death of these two sterling characters, whose loss must continue to be felt for some time to come.

MOURNING AT PRINCETON.

DROWNING OF SOPHOMORES CASTS A GLOOM OVER THE UNIVERSITY.

Princeton, N. J., May 21 (Special).—A shadow has fallen on Princeton since the drowning of Philip K. Hay and C. C. Augur, of the sophomore class, in the Millstone River yesterday. Augur's body was recovered last night, and at 4:30 o'clock this morning Proctor Topley secured the body of Hay with a grappling hook. It was only fifty feet away from the dam, and had evidently been tossed all night in the eddy. It is thought that Hay was not drowned, but killed by striking a stone, because no water was found in his lungs and there was a large cut and bruise on his forehead.

The sophomore class was excused from all college duties to-day, and all classes were excused at 11:30 o'clock, when a memorial service was held in Marquand Chapel. In response to the tolling of the college bell about one thousand students and professors assembled.

After the service a procession was formed, led by President Patton. The bier was borne by six of Hay's classmates, P. A. Moore, Henry Adair, I. Hilliard, Hugh Herndon, A. J. Barron and R. T. Mount. After the bier came his fellow members of the Varuna and Cap and Gown clubs, the sophomore class and finally the other classes, all marching to the station, where the body was taken on the 11:30 o'clock train to Hay's father's home in Nutley, N. J.

It is not yet known when C. C. Augur will be buried, as his relatives have not arrived. It is probable that the reception which was announced by the sophomores for the seniors in commencement week will be abandoned or given by another class.

MEMORIAL SERVICES.

The Body of C. C. Augur Removed to Texas for Burial. Funeral of P. K. Hay To-day.

Memorial services were held yesterday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in Marquand Chapel over the body of Christopher Colon Augur, who was drowned Sunday afternoon in the Millstone River at Kingston.

Shortly before services began the coffin containing the body was taken to Marquand Chapel, where it was placed in front of the pulpit and covered with the floral gifts sent by friends. The ceremonies were conducted by President Patton and were very brief, consisting of a prayer and the reading of a portion of the regular burial service which was followed by a closing prayer. The coffin was then borne out by the pall-bearers and placed in the hearse, while Chopin's "Marche Funèbre" was rendered on the Chapel organ. The hearse, followed by a long procession of students with heads uncovered, proceeded slowly to the depot, where the coffin was placed aboard the 2:15 train.

The body will be forwarded to San Antonio, Texas, where the mother of the deceased resides, and where the funeral will be held immediately after its arrival.

The pall-bearers were H. R. Lathrop 1900, Calvin Pentress 1901, H. A. Smith 1901, W. S. Smith 1901, C. D. Kerr 1901, A. D. Childs 1901, P. A. Moore 1902, Hugh Herndon 1902, J. H. Frost 1902, M. F. Mills 1902, D. H. McAlpin 1902, O. T. Mallory 1902.

FUNERAL OF P. K. HAY.

The funeral services for Philip Kingsland Hay 1902, will be held in Grace Church, Nutley, New Jersey, at noon to-day.

A. D. PLAW, CALIFORNIA.

For a fortnight Vanity Fair has been on the qui vive over a bachelor dinner which came off last evening, January 19, and which was given by Mr. Samuel Brown, of No. 41 Avenue A. A well founded rumor had been fluttering through society that at this function an engagement of much social importance would be announced. The beaux to be present were known to be attentive to local Cinderellas whom the shoe might fit, and consequently not one of the twelve men at the dinner escaped from the soft impeachment that he was the happy man. Mrs. T. Y. Brown has always been prominent in Bergen Point as a hostess who gives beautiful entertainments. So it was expected and realized that Mr. Samuel Brown's dinner would be one of the most brilliant successes of the season. The men who were present were: Mr. Bayard T. Kinsam, Mr. Logan Borland, Mr. Frank Jenkins, of New York; Mr. William Langford, Mr. Cecil Grant, Mr. L. Emery Katzenbach, of New York; Mr. Philip Moore, Mr. Jack Cottrell, Dr. E. Thum and Mr. George Seymour, Mr. A. Vredenburg. The dinner was one of the best and the table decorations were beautiful. They were in part American Beauty roses and pink wax candles, with shades of the same color. Dr. Ernest Thum, who plays like an artist, furnished fine music. At 12 p. m. the engagement was not announced. Salmagundi.

There is nothing so effective as a generator of enthusiasm as the presence of a body of fleet college students in a parade. For this reason we hope that the managers of the demonstration to be held on Friday night will make every effort to get the Republican Club from Princeton University here. They have a first-class uniformed life and drum corps, and when the Princeton students go out to celebrate they do not do things by halves.

DRUM, PIPE AND BUGLE CORPS.

A meeting of the members of last year's University Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps organization was held in 3 S. W. Brown last evening at seven o'clock for the purpose of electing leaders and to map out the year's work.

Charles Campbell 1902 was made leader of the bugle corps, to take the place of R. S. Parsons 1901, and P. A. Moore 1902 was elected manager of the entire Drum Corps organization. Trials for the fife and bugles will be held on Monday, October the first, at half-past seven in 3 S. W. Brown. All men who have any ability on either of these instruments are urged to come out. Trials for the bass drum and cymbals will also be held at the same time in 3 S. W. Brown. Freshmen are particularly requested to appear at these trials. The organization this year will consist of about thirty men.

He is Accorded an Enthusiastic Reception at Princeton Junction. His Speech to the Students.

Although the demonstration with which Princeton men greeted Admiral Dewey yesterday, upon his arrival at Princeton Junction, offered no comparison in the way of display with those accorded him at the various cities he has visited en route, it is, however, safe to say that in sincere enthusiasm, the welcome he received here has been unsurpassed.

Professor West was the first to take any steps toward carrying into execution the idea of having the

The crowd closed in around the rear platform of the car, and as the Admiral appeared in the doorway, greeted him with a hearty cheer. He smiled pleasantly, and stepping to the railing of the platform he waited for silence before beginning to speak. As the noise died away he made the following remarks:

"Gentlemen, I am glad to see you. You can't imagine how gratified I am to hear 'our' university cheer. For you know I am one of you now. My son," pointing to George Goodwin Dewey '96, who stood behind his father, "graduated there, and I also am a Doctor of Laws in 'our' university. I thank you for this demonstration."

IN UNIVERSITY HALL, PRINCETON.

The season in Washington so far has been dull. The holidays are always gay for the debutantes, of whom there are a number this year. The presence of the college men has brought on an average of a ball each night for the fashionable younger set. The Princeton Glee and Glee Clubs gave a charming concert last week. The Lafayette Square Theatre was beautifully decorated with orange and black flags and banners, and the audience a representative society set, all the women being in low-neck gowns or dresses of light color. A ball followed, given by the Alumni of the city, which was a great success. The President received the Sons of Nassau at a private reception, an honor never before shown to a body of university men. As they left the audience, these young Americans showed their appreciation of this graciousness by a rousing Princeton cheer, given on the front portico of the Executive Mansion.

ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT

INTERCOLLEGIATE GYMNASIUM
MEET.

The Gymnasium team is practicing daily for the Intercollegiate Meet which will be held in the afternoon and evening of March 23, at the Columbia University Gymnasium in New York city. Twenty-six teams, representing universities and colleges from nearly every eastern state, will compete in the meeting. The club swinging and side horse events will be held in the afternoon and the remainder in the evening. The Princeton team will consist of seven men, three of whom will compete in the special event. The men entered, with the events in which they will compete are as follows: W. A. Coulter '02, horizontal bar; P. A. Moore '02, parallel bars; H. G. Otis '02, flying rings; J. K. Savage '02, club swinging; S. S. Feagles '00, L. E. Katzenbach '01, and W. F. Mountain '00, L'Eschelle.

In addition to the regular contests each team will be allowed to enter any specialty it may desire. The lists of judges for each event have already been announced.

PRINCETON STUDENTS DROWNED.

ATTEMPTED TO GO OVER A MILL DAM
IN A CANOE.

Princeton, N. J., May 26 Special.—While Dr. Patton was administering the sacrament of the Lord's Supper to the students of Princeton University in Marquand Chapel this afternoon a messenger came with the news that two members of the sophomore class had been drowned. They were Philip Kingsland Hay, of Nutley, a suburb of Newark, and Christopher Calton Augur, of Evanston, Ill.

The young men were paddling a canoe in the Millstone River, two miles east of Princeton, and decided to shoot the mill dam at Kingston. The canoe caught on the dam and upset, and the occupants were drawn in by the swell.

Augur's body was found about a hundred feet below the dam.

The accident was witnessed from the bank by two of the young men's classmates, Edgar A. Rowe, of Evanston, Ill., and Damon B. Pfeiffer, of Williamsstown, N. J., and a brother of Hay. Pfeiffer brought the news to Princeton and secured help.

Augur and Hay were two of the most popular men in the sophomore class, and were well known throughout the whole college. Hay was a member of the Varuna Club, art editor of the year book, "The Brice-a-Brac"; an editor of "The Princeton Tiger" and a member of the gymnasium team. His father is James H. Hay, of Nutley. Christopher Augur was a son of Major Augur, of the 4th United States Cavalry, now stationed in Manila. He was a member of the Varuna Club and assistant manager of the gymnasium team. Both Augur and Hay had been elected members of the Cap and Gown Club for next year.

The accident recalls the shooting of Rowley Shepard '06, in 1888, and the death of Norman McLeod, '01, in 1889. All three accidents occurred in the last two weeks of May.

Yale-Princeton Gymnastic Meet.
Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 8.—The Princeton gymnastic team showed much the better form in the annual exhibition which was held with Yale in the Yale gymnasium to-night. There was a large number of undergraduates who encored Princeton's clever team repeatedly. The tumbling trio, P. T. Jones, E. A. Moore, and H. G. Ogle; J. K. Savage, the club swinger; P. A. Moore, as balon expert, and T. D. Cunningham, as balancing trapeze artist, were particularly good and were not equaled by any special Yale men.

Yale's best work was on the parallel bars, where some clever tableaux were done. The gymnasts were as follows:

have taken in forming a literary club is one which cannot be too highly commended and one which we hope will meet with the encouragement, which, always due a movement of this nature, is especially so now, when the literary activities of the Halls are at a comparatively low ebb.

It is the institution of organizations such as this, which will infuse the true literary spirit into the life of the University and lend to Princeton the tone and atmosphere which she has been accused of lacking.

With a view to stimulating this intellectual life, the Monday Night Club was organized several years ago and has now firmly established itself as a University institution. No better model than this club can be taken by the one newly formed and it is to be hoped that the cooperation which it will receive from those, in a position to give it, will be such as to warrant its settlement upon a permanent basis.

Fortnightly Club.

The Princeton Drum and Bugle Corps, in uniform of blue and white, headed the "Rough Riders" infantry companies. These commands were in full ranks and marched with soldierly precision. The Fowler Guard, colored

PRINCETONIAN BANQUET.

Third Annual Banquet Held at the Inn
Last Night.

The third annual banquet of the DAILY PRINCETONIAN board was held last evening at the Princeton Inn. The banquet began at about half-past eight and closing with the toast by Professor Woodrow Wilson.

The list of toasts was as follows:
The Outgoing Board—W. E. Hope

1901.

The Incoming Board—A. J. Barron

1902.

The Yale News—N. H. Mason.

French Journalism—Professor A. G. Cameron.

College Men in Politics—Professor J. H. Finley.

The Faculty—Dr. Henry van Dyke.

Princeton University—Professor Woodrow Wilson.

J. W. Jameson, business manager of the 1901 board, acted as toast master. After a few remarks, he introduced W. E. Hope, editor-in-chief of the 1901 board, who spoke briefly of the responsibilities of the PRINCETONIAN toward the University and of the undergraduate body toward the PRINCETONIAN. A. J. Barron was then introduced and outlined the ambitions and purposes of the incoming board. Mr. N. H. Mason, of the Yale News followed. He conveyed the good wishes of the Yale News toward the DAILY PRINCETONIAN and related the scheme of work pursued on the Yale paper.

Professor A. G. Cameron was the next speaker, and dwelt upon the wit and high literary standards of the French papers and the excellent political journalism displayed in their columns.

Professor J. H. Finley spoke of the duties and responsibilities which college men will meet in the politics of the country after their graduation.

Professor Henry van Dyke followed and spoke on behalf of the faculty, emphasizing the importance of a spirit of the closest sympathy between the faculty and the undergraduate body and dwelling particularly upon the desire which the faculty has for extending such a relation.

The closing speech was made by Professor Woodrow Wilson. He spoke of Princeton as a place of preparation, not as a place of achievement, and of the necessity of getting in college: ideas which will give the alumnus a mind trained to cope with the problems of life in all of its aspects.

Immediately after the remarks by Professor Wilson, the banquet was closed by the singing of "Old Nassau."

The list of invited guests was as follows: President F. L. Patton, Professors Woodrow Wilson and H. B. Fine, of the '78 and '79 boards respectively; Professors E. Y. Robbins, Paul van Dyke, W. Libbey, of the '77 board; A. G. Cameron, J. H. Finley, Henry van Dyke, A. F. West, W. A. Wyckoff, Dean Winans, the Honorable Grover Cleveland, Mr. Laurence Hutton, Mr. Jesse Lynch Williams '92, editor of the Alumni Weekly; J. N. Beam, editor-in-chief of the '96 board; P. H. Churchman, of the '96 board; A. N. Turnbull, of the 1900 board; N. H. Mason, of the Yale News; Bliss Perry, of the Atlantic Monthly; J. W. Alexander '60, Bayard Henry '74, M. Taylor Payne '77, C. C. Cuyler '79, MacCreedy Sykes '94, The Harvard Crimson; A. D. Childs 1901, G. M. Mattis 1901, F. J. Hall 1901, R. D. Little 1901, J. Alken 1901, L. E. Katzenbach 1901, R. Schaff 1901, J. L. Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 9.—William Riley, known all over the Territory as "One-Eyed" Riley, one of the best-known cowboys and bronco busters in the Southwest, died to-night as a result of a fall from a horse three days ago. The accident occurred while he was trying to rope a steer. He never recovered consciousness and it was found that his skull had been fractured. Riley was a star in the tournaments held in this region. Nobody knows where he came from. He had lived here many years, but he was never heard to speak of his family.

Geo Johnson,

Advice

The cards which were thrown around by the two lower classes during the exercises yesterday morning were absolutely disgraceful. It would be unfair to place the blame for them upon the two under classes as a whole, for a large majority of each class, of course, knew nothing of their contents beforehand, but the committees which prepared them cannot be censured too severely.

For several years it has been customary to have committees, consisting of upper classmen, examine these cards and give their approval of them before they are allowed to be distributed. Yesterday's cards, however, show very plainly that even this is not a sufficient precaution, for either the under-classmen evaded these committees or the committees entirely neglected their duty.

One of the strongest sentiments which prevails among college men, and especially Princeton men, is a feeling of conservatism and of disinclination to change anything which may be looked upon as a college custom or precedent. But when, as in the case yesterday, a college custom has become a disgrace to every member of the college, there is no longer any excuse for its existence.

Either some new plan must be arranged so that these cards may not be made collections of indecent allusions, or else the self respect of every man in college demands that in the future they be abolished as a feature of the Washington's Birthday exercises.

'02's CRYSTAL COLLECTION.

NOTICE.—Visitors are respectfully requested to wear dark glasses when inspecting these putrefied, gangrenous, ulcerated, fetid, decayed, lousy, worm-eaten representatives of the rotten class of 1902.

Here are a few—the rest emit a stench :

“THREE-BALL” LEDERER.

“OSCAR” STEMWINDER, the Sophomore Boot (?) lick.

“DOES HE (?)” ROPER, the shot-tower misprint.

“SPANIARD” FROST, the man who pulled the wrong gun.

“RAG-TIME” BERKEY, the tissue-paper sport.

“POE does it!”

“CATCH-FISH” MILLS, the bottled-shouldered Lizzie boy.

“ON AND OFF (?)” McVITTY, or jar loose.

“CLEO” MUIR, wanted a tool-chest.

“TWO-BLUE” ARGERSINGER, a stranger in New York.

“WENCH-FACED” BRADLEY, the witty singer. Nit!

“TURP” KINNEY, the man who climbs the cane.

FREDERICK ALEXANDER, the weeping willow.

“NICK CARTER” STOCKLEY, or, frightened by an owl.

“NO-DOUBT-OF-IT” CURRAN. He looks it.

“SILVER-TONGUED” McDERMOTT, first in war, first in piece, second in Fine's algebra, [REDACTED]

“SANDOW” PELL, the Terrible Turk, or the would-be Sophomore rush stopper. He couldn't be found.

Drink BALLANTINE'S Goo!

“TUB” McCORD, often mistaken for a beer-keg.

“TANK” MORAN, “BIG-MOUTH” ELBERT, “ASS” McALPIN, “MIDGET” OTIS, “JEW” WILSON, “HOCK-SHOP” FLEISHMAN, are good examples of the muck-erish and street-refuse character of the whole assortment. [REDACTED]

ALTHOUGH it is customary to adopt obituary resolutions immediately after death, the class of 1902, judging from the rotten, nauseating, putrefied stench which they emitted the first day they entered Princeton, had already been dead far longer than the glorious class of 1901 have been alive.

The following resolutions have been adopted by the uplifting, mighty and glorious class of 1901 before it is too late ; for, in spite of the most thorough fumigation, that piece of diseased tripe known as 1902 becomes daily more horrible in its worm-eaten rottenness.

RESOLUTIONS.

WHEREAS, We, the glorious class of 1901, in our infinite wisdom, have for five long months done all within our mighty power to free Princeton from the germs of that disgusting disease known as 1902 ; and

WHEREAS, We have walked over and crushed them completely in the annual cannon rush, from which they once more rose in all their all pervading stench, like the steam from a pile of natural fertilizer ;* and

WHEREAS, The cringing, groveling cowards, already defeated, fled from the cane rush, and refused to finish the contest in which the afore mentioned glorious class of 1901 had decided to utterly obliterate this obnoxious pest ; and

WHEREAS, We know of no other way left to purify the town ; be it

Resolved, That we, the glorious class of 1901, do hereby urgently call the attention of the trustees that a new and more extensive sewerage system is absolutely essential to the health and comfort of the university.

*For specimen, see "Dutch" Meier.

NUTTY'S THREE'S CESS-POOL.

FOR the past five months the University has been disgusted, nauseated and sickened by noisome fumes emanating from the foul amalgamation of excrescences issued by the various schools of the land which was deposited upon the campus at the beginning of the college year. This loathsome conglomeration of fetid filth has made a ludicrous and puerile attempt to perform the ignominious functions of a freshman class; but the only result of the puny effort has been to convince all observers that the "Alleged" class of 1903 is nothing but a horse! A dead, decomposed, worm-eaten, germ-infested, vermin-teeming, stinking mass of festered putrefaction, the swelled and bloated head of which is Percy Pyne, the pimple-faced, pasty, would-be sport and general bootlicker. A swarm of maggots feed on the pussy, swelled head, and among those that gorge themselves with the slimy meal are LEVICK and PURNELL, BLAIR and DONALD, and many lesser maggots not odious enough to mention. The whole breed are afflicted with the same disease—their heads are abnormal, bloated tumors inflated by a vast nothingness. So we might name each name, each nuzzling vampire-bug that infests the rotted carcass from MacSwitchie Hamilton, the down-trodden hoof, to the sneaking, black-haired HIBBEN, the mangy tail that is a fitting end to the heap of reeking offal, but we spare the shrinking reader. Suffice it to say that a few of the components of this mortified, matterated mass, dragged forth by the frantic efforts of the Junior Class from their cowardly retreat, feebly attempted to rush the cannon, and were summarily overwhelmed, routed and trodden into their native slime by the mighty CLASS OF NINETEEN HUNDRED AND TWO. After this crushing defeat, the vermin made but two spasms, one an attempt to win the base-ball game, the other the shame-faced apology of an attempt to win the cane-spreed. Thereafter the virulent, ulcerous, sloughing mass succumbed to the mighty CLASS OF NINETEEN HUNDRED AND TWO, and has since cowered in the mud, drowntrodden by the conquering heel.

The appended MANURE-PILE speaks for itself:

"Anna HELD" HIBBEN—the Judas of Nutty-three.

Puking Pyne—the peerless pip.

"Put-it-over" Purnell—the swelled-headed tin-horn.

Mistletoe Leavick—the Pyne-tree parasite.

Haymarket Blair—the Sophomore bootlicker.

Hang-over Donald—the horrid, bold, bad boozier.

Bail-bond Beasley—gone but not forgotten.

Lily Lott—'03's voluptuous corseted Venus.

Cat-whiskered Betts—the Rathskeller call-boy.

Mouthy Davies—Nutty-three's air-gun.

D. T. McKaig—the Trenton sewer-rat.

MacSwitchie Hamilton—the spiritualistic phrenological prodigy.

Beer-barrel Berkham—the sap-headed guzzler.

Spoony Dana—the love-lorn lobster.

Tin-Gawd Griswold—the Doge of the Dopes.

Fascinating Forney—"Aint I great?"

Vivian Leftwich—'nough said.

Padded Pancoast—worse and more of it.

Sponger Thatcher—the popular (?) captain.

Smirking Hodgman—or "I know it all."

Caramba Cospetti Sacramento Tesaleo Ramon Cadenas—'03's Spanish pig.

Besides this offal, are the following: Jackey Steinbach, Choey Sacs, Mein Gott Vogelsang, Fire-sale Siegel, Cut-price Pollock—lonely members of THE persecuted race.

NOTICE.

THAT NAUSEOUS MESS of disgusting and unspeakable germs of disease, constituting the notorious Boil known as the Class of 1902 had poisoned the free air with the intolerable stench of their personality for one year. Then the ADVENT OF THE ILLUSTRIOUS CLASS OF 1903 brought hope to the suffering University.

This noble and radiant body of heroes has devoted itself from the first to the suppression of the noisome insignificant pests that Fortune had by mischance, allowed to escape vermicide.

Taken as a class, they are the most loathsome mixture of maggots imaginable, but 1903 has waged well the war of extermination and they are safe in saying that the haunts of despicable vermin are now almost deserted. This sanitary reform was accomplished, first, by the courage and determination of noble 1903 and the cowardly and emasculated terror of 1902.

It may chance that the reader may to-day perceive a few of these disgusting bacilli spreading their pestilential miasma through the unsuspecting assembly, but the Class of 1903 begs to assure them that they will soon drive these personified diseases back to their respective apertures beneath Old North.

ABOUT THE RUSH.

Come listen all ye people,
And soon ye all may know
How the FRESHMEN beat the SOPHOMORES
Just a little while ago.

'Twas in the mild September,
And we heard the SOPHOMORES say
We'll have a little rush to-night,
To pass the time away.

So they grouped about the cannon
And we formed near Clio Hall ;
Then we started for the cannon,
AND FOUND NO ONE AT ALL.

They had left the place deserted,
For through fear they had sought flight,
'Cause their little nerve had left them,
And they didn't want to fight.

We chased them up and down the street
'Till they were nearly dead,
And Topley, their protector, came
To take them home to bed.

They learned their little lesson,
Even though they didn't fight,
And have not disturbed a FRESHMAN,
Since that memorable night.

Nitty-Two's Library.

In perusing the library of Old Dr. Grindle Steinwender, the following books were found :

COMPOSITION OF THE UNIVERSITY GYM. TEAM.

The men who are to compose the University Gym. Team have been picked and are practicing for the exhibition to be given on the afternoon of Washington's Birthday. The following is a list of the members of the team: H. H. Laughlin 1900, L. E. Katzenbach 1901, captain; C. A. Lyon 1901, P. A. Moore, 1902, H. G. Otis 1902, P. Jones 1902, J. K. Savage 1902, T. D. Cunningham 1902, W. H. MacCreary 1902, W. A. Coulter 1903, F. C. Wallower 1903, C. W. Holzhauer 1904, B. Vanderhoff 1904.

Some of the parts that will be taken by the different men are as follows:

Double Trapeze.....

..... C. A. Lyon and F. C. Wallower

Flying Trapeze.....

..... H. H. Laughlin and W. H. MacCreary

Balancing.....

..... T. D. Cunningham

L'Eschelle.....

..... P. Jones, C. A. Lyon, P. K. Savage

Baton Swinging.....

..... P. A. Moore

Club Swinging.....

..... P. K. Savage

Three High (acrobatics).....

..... P. A. Moore, P. Jones, H. G. Otis

Besides these events there will be work on the horizontal bar and tumbling

by the different members of the team.

A full program of the exhibition will appear in a later issue of the PRINCETON-IAN.

The team will participate in a Dual

Exhibition with Yale in New Haven on March 8, and also will take part in the

Intercollegiate Gymnastic Meet, to be held on March 23, in the Academy of Music, Philadelphia. The management also expects to arrange several exhibitions to take place later in the season.

PRINCETON WAS DRY.

Perhaps even more than this, the feeling of importance is shown by the pains taken by the closing of the saloons. Such a thing was never known in Princeton before, but it was done last night and is in force to-day merely because the faculty of the university thought that with such a crowd in town open saloons might lead to disorder of some kind. The fact that the owners of the places, without orders from the city authorities and merely at the request of the college officials, surrendered hundreds of dollars' worth of trade shows how potent is the pull of the university bosses. The closing of the saloons wasn't relished a little bit by the strangers in town. They kicked long and vigorously, but that was all the good it did them.

Another feature which even the stranger in town could not help noticing was the general use of chrysanthemums as decorations. For many a year the chrysanthemum and the football half cut have been one of the staple articles of the cartoonists.

But this year Princeton has outdone itself. It has always used the Japanese flower more than any other college. For some reason neither Harvard nor Yale nor Pennsylvania has had any in evidence at their games. To-day Princeton seems to be trying to make up for its rivals' neglect.

INTERCOLLEGIATE GYM. MEET

Won by Yale. Princeton Wins First Place in Flying Rings and Tumbling.

The third individual championship meeting of the Intercollegiate Gymnastic Association was held on Saturday evening in the Academy of Music, Philadelphia. Yale won first place in the meet with three first, two second and two third places. Columbia was second, and Princeton third.

For Princeton, L. E. Katzenbach was awarded first place in the tumbling event, H. G. Otis won the flying rings event and P. A. Moore was a close second in the horizontal bar event. Princeton also won the special event. Princeton also won the three high, in which P. T. Jones, P. A. Moore and H. G. Otis took part.

The individual championship was won by E. L. Eliason, of Yale, with a total of 25 1/2 points; G. Albin, of Yale, was second, with 16 1/2 points. The Yale team appeared the best balanced and exhibited great skill and uniformity in the events in which they were entered. They succeeded in obtaining all three places in two of the events. In many respects the Princeton and Columbia gymnasts excelled the Yale athletes, but misses were made at critical moments, lowering their general average. The events resulted as follows:

Horizontal Bar—Won by E. L. Eliason, Yale, 84 points; second, G. Albin, Yale, 83 points; third, R. Hinton, Yale, 78 points. Eighteen men entered.

Side Horse Exhibition—Won by G. Albin, Yale, 83 1/2 points; second, E. H. P. Ward, Columbia, 82 points; third, E. L. Eliason, Yale, 80 points. Ten men were entered.

Club Swinging—Won by R. W. Van Deerin, Columbia, 27 1/2 points; second, G. P. Braydon, New York University, 27 points; third, A. L. Dewees, Haverford, 26 1/2 points. Sixteen men entered.

Parallels Bars—Won by E. L. Eliason, Yale, 86 points; second, P. A. Moore, Princeton, 86 points; third, C. Eastmond, Columbia, 83 1/2 points.

Flying Rings—Won by H. G. Otis, Princeton, 28 points; second, V. De La M. Earle, Columbia, 27 1/2 points; third, C. T. Swart, Columbia, 27 points.

Tumbling—Won by L. E. Katzenbach, Princeton, 28 1/2 points; second, M. J. Whitely, Yale, 27 1/2 points; third, C. T. Swart, Columbia, 27 points. Eleven men entered.

Special Event—Won by P. T. Jones, P. A. Moore, and H. G. Otis.

At the meeting of the Executive Committee, held afterwards, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, D. H. McAlpin II, Princeton; Treasurer, G. Albin, Yale; Secretary, Anderson, New York University; Executive Committee—P. A. Moore, Princeton; G. Albin, Yale; J. H. Hildebrand, University of Pennsylvania; V. Earle, Columbia.

INTERCOLLEGIATE GYM. MEET.

Annual Contest to be Held in Academy of Music, Philadelphia, This Evening.

The Intercollegiate Gymnastic Meet will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the Academy of Music, corner of Broad and Locust streets, Philadelphia. Teams from Princeton, Yale, Columbia, Cornell, Haverford, New York University, Amherst and the University of Pennsylvania will participate.

Princeton's team will leave for Philadelphia today on the 3-17 train, and will assemble at the Hotel Walton at 5:30 p.m. The men will spend Saturday night at the Hotel Colonnade, Fifteenth and Chestnut streets, and will return to Princeton on Sunday. The following men will constitute the team: L. E. Katzenbach 1901, captain; P. A. Moore 1902, J. K. Savage 1902, T. D. Cunningham 1902, P. T. Jones 1902, H. G. Otis 1902, C. W. Holzhauser 1904.

The events of the Intercollegiate Meet will be the horizontal bar, flying rings, side-horse, club swinging, tumbling, parallel bars, and the special event. In all of these events, except the side horse, Princeton will enter at least one man.

The following men will represent Princeton in their respective events: Flying rings, H. G. Otis; parallel bars, P. A. Moore; club swinging, J. K. Savage; horizontal bar, C. W. Holzhauser; tumbling, T. D. Cunningham and L. E. Katzenbach. The last event, the three high, P. T. Jones, P. A. Moore, and H. G. Otis will be in competition for the special event, which forms a part of the program. The meet was won last year by Columbia. Princeton succeeding only in winning third place in the flying rings and first place in the special event by the representation of L. E. Katzenbach. The judges for the Intercollegiate Meet have been chosen as follows: W. M. Herman, Philadelphia; Dr. Elinger, Philadelphia; Richard Pettuch, Philadelphia; William Haas, New York City; William Tracelsch, Philadelphia; M. J. Sweeney, Hill School, Pottstown; Dr. J. Smith, Philadelphia; Paul Sixtus, Philadelphia.

The following teams will represent Yale, Pennsylvania and Columbia: Yale—Captain E. L. Eliason 1901, G. Albin 1902, E. H. Beuner 1901, C. W. Somerset 1904, R. Hinton, P. G. L. Sola 1903, W. J. Whitely 1901.

Pennsylvania—Captain P. R. Byerly 1902, C. C. Henry 1904, A. Jordan 1902, B. A. Ball 1902, P. C. Dowler 1902, C. J. Cruikshank 1901, S. J. Mestre 1903, J. H. Hildebrand 1903.

Columbia—Captain C. Eastman 1901, D. Pollich, Jr. 1902, H. S. Osborne 1903, E. Ward 1901, S. F. Rigley 1902, C. T. Swart 1902, V. Earle 1903, S. Silbiger 1901, R. W. Van Durin 1901.

FIRST PLACE FOR YALE.

College Gymnasts Compete Here Eliason Again Champion.

Yale won first place, Columbia was second and Princeton third in the third annual meet of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Gymnasts, at the Academy of Music last night. Columbia had a first-class team, but the individual stars of Yale carried off the principal honors, while E. L. Eliason, of Yale again won the all round championship.

The waters of the blue swept the boards in the horizontal bar event. E. L. Eliason, of Yale, was first with 84 points; G. Albin, Yale, was second with 83 points, and R. Hinton, of Yale, was third with 78 points.

Albin, of Yale, was the winner of the side horse event, he scoring 83 1/2 points. E. H. P. Ward, of Columbia, was second with 82 points, and Eliason, of Yale, was third with 80 points.

E. W. Van Deerin scored 27 1/2 points and won in club swinging, closely pressed by G. P. Brayton, New York University, who was second, and J. W. Cadbury, of Yale, who secured third honors.

The spectators were kept busy applauding during the performance of the contestants on the parallel bars. Moore of Princeton; C. L. Williamson, of Rutgers, and G. L. Garrett, of Haverford, doing intricate maneuvers which gained the plaudits of the spectators. The winner again turned up in Eliason, who secured 86 1/2 points. P. A. Moore, of Princeton, was a close second with 86 points and C. Eastmond, of Columbia, was third with 83 1/2 points.

The Orange and Black, of Princeton, was triumphant over the Blue, of Yale, in the flying rings. H. L. Otis, of Princeton, securing first place and V. De La M. Earle and C. T. Swart, both of Columbia, coming in second and third respectively.

Princeton also won first place in the final event of the evening, when L. E. Katzenbach proved the best at tumbling. Second place was won by M. J. Whitely, of Yale, while C. W. Ward, of Columbia, was third.

Special events were given by teams from Princeton and Haverford.

Before a small but very smart number of spectators, the Intercollegiate Gymnastic championship meet, played last evening in the Academy of Music, Yale, Princeton, Columbia, Amherst, Cornell, Haverford, Rutgers and New York University had men in the different events. Yale, Columbia and Princeton scored of but Yale, Columbia and Princeton scored of the lion's share of the prizes. The Blue won the side-horse championship, scoring 83 points second—Albin, Yale, 82 points, third—Hinton, Princeton, 78 points.

The feature of the evening was the grand work of Eliason on the horizontal bar and the fine tumbling of Katzenbach, of Princeton. Van Deerin, of Columbia, won the club swinging.

The Red and Blue gymnasts were applauded by their audience, not a single one coming in any event. If anything shows the best of a gymnast at Pennsylvania, the low standard of his gymnastics should be evidence. Summary:

Horizontal Bar—Eliason, Yale, 84 points; Albin, Yale, 83 points; Hinton, Princeton, 78 points; third, Ward, Columbia, 82 points; second, Eliason, Yale, 80 points; third.

Club Swinging—Van Deerin, Columbia, 27 1/2 points; second, Brayton, New York University, 27 1/2 points; third, Cadbury, Yale, 26 1/2 points; second, Dewees, Haverford, 26 1/2 points; third.

and a funny lump came in his throat, and for a moment neither of them spoke.

"Why didn't you come back before?" It was out now, what he'd been waiting to ask from the first minute.

"I did come back. I'm only a little more here than I have been all the time." Then Eden knew what he'd suspected; that it was she who warmed the dark up for him, and who made him feel so comforted.

He knew, of course, that she was different from the others, a thousand times dearer and sweeter, but different, so he never spoke about her to any one. You don't have to be very old to know that one doesn't talk about the things one feels gladdest or saddest about. And it made Eden so happy to be with her that he couldn't have talked about her, even if he hadn't been afraid that they would laugh at him if he said:

"There's a lady in the garden who has lost her shadow." He knew that would sound silly if he said it out loud—he knew the queer things grown people laugh about. That was one of the most confusing things about them—the way they laughed always in the wrong places. Then, too, they would be sure to ask him where she came from. How could he make them understand that she wasn't the kind that came from places? For she hadn't come from anywhere, neither was she going anywhere. She was there, that was all, just as he was there, only in a different way.

She was in the house too. He could hear her laugh and catch glimpses of her; she was all over the house, and when he played indoors she played with him. He wondered why it was that his aunt didn't say something about her. Very soon he found out why. It was because his aunt couldn't see her. Once his aunt came upon them so quietly that Eden hadn't heard her come; they were talking together in the delightful way that didn't need any words, when he heard his aunt close behind him. She bent over him and kissed him.

"How nicely you play by yourself," she said. "Are you having a good time?"

Eden almost answered, "But I'm not playing by myself." He looked from his friend to his aunt and back again; and he saw that his aunt couldn't see her, while she, with her kind look that dropped peace into one's heart, was looking at his aunt. The sadness went out of his aunt's face; then she sighed:

"I can't believe sometimes that she's gone."

And Eden had hard work not to cry out, "But she's not gone, she's here!" But something kept his mouth closed, and he sat there with a toy in his hand, smiling his quaint little smile.

This incident gave him a great many questions to ask of his friend.

"Do you know auntie?" was the first one.

"I did long ago," his friend answered, and she sighed. "I thought she had forgotten me."

"Why," he asked next, "don't you ever come into the room when my father's there? Why don't you come where my aunt is?"

At that she wrung her hands and said: "I don't know. I can't tell you. They don't let me."

Now Eden hadn't asked why it was that his aunt couldn't see her when he could, for that, somehow, seemed natural enough; but he didn't understand how they could keep her out when they couldn't see her, and he said so.

But there was a look on her face that made Eden say, "Don't cry," and she answered so faintly that he could hardly hear the words:

"They've forgotten me!"

Then Eden comforted her and coaxed her, just how he couldn't tell, and soon she looked at him in her glad way that made him feel warm all through.

It all gave him a great deal to think of, and when he went to find her in the garden next day he had his little explanation ready.

"You see," he told her, "they are so busy remembering about my mother that I suppose they haven't time to remember you."

She repeated after him: "They talk about your mother?"

"Yes," he said, "all the time. My mother," he explained proudly, "is dead." For although it is, of course, a very sad thing to have your mother die, it has its compensations, if you were only a very little boy when it happened. Having your mother dead makes ladies give you extra large pieces of cake when your aunt takes you to call on them, and makes everybody specially nice to you. So little by little, Eden had grown rather proud of having his mother dead. He began to behave about it as if it were something clever he had done himself.

He went on in a rather important tone: "She was very good, but not like you a bit. I don't think you'd like her."

"You don't think I'd like her?" she asked, and there was a look in her eyes that Eden had never seen there before.

"No," he said, "you're not a bit alike, and I don't like her at all."

She gave a queer little gasp of an "Oh!" and put her hand to her heart again.

"Why, dear, don't you like your mother? And how do you know we're not alike? Do you remember her?" It was her turn for questions.

"Before she died, you mean?" Eden asked.

"No. I used to, but I don't any more."

"Then how do you know what she's like?" she pressed him.

That was an easy one.

"Oh, I've heard them talking so much that I know just what she's like."

"They like her, then?" she asked, and Eden knew that something was hurting her very much, though he couldn't think what it could be.

"Oh, they like her more than anything," and to comfort her he came close to her.

"But I love you lots the most," he said. "I never have liked her. She makes the room cold, and she doesn't like me." He let slip out what he hadn't meant to tell, that he had seen his mother. He wanted, you see, to justify himself, for he knew that every right-minded person would be shocked at the idea of his not liking his mother, and he looked at his friend anxiously to see what she thought of him. But she didn't seem shocked. He knew she wasn't even thinking of him at all.

"I never understood," she moaned to herself. "I never understood." Then she cried out, "Oh, poor, poor people!" Eden waited patiently until she should get back to him again. This she did suddenly, with:

"How do you know she doesn't like you?"

"I can tell by the way she acts," Eden confessed, his finger in his mouth, much afraid of being called silly, for he knew that his mother wasn't really there, not as his father and his aunt were.

But his friend didn't think he was silly, and the tone in which she asked, "Do you mean you see her as you see me?" almost frightened him. She seemed quite a different person from the one he had known all along; sad and angry and hurt. Eden faltered out:

"Yes, I see her, but generally she goes out when I come in."

"What does she look like?" his friend asked eagerly.

"She's very beautiful, they say, and very, very good. She gets grieved when I'm bad, auntie says, but I don't think she cares what I do. They can't see her," he added proudly, for now that she didn't think he was silly to see people that weren't there, he thought himself clever to see things his aunt and his father couldn't.

"Could you see her?" he asked.

"I must see her," she answered seriously. "I must try and try till I see her. I thought they had forgotten. I couldn't know they'd forget this way."

"You don't think it's bad for me not to like my mother very much?" he questioned.

A great many wonderful things had happened to Eden without his being surprised—for nobody had told him they were wonderful, so of course he couldn't be expected to know—but what happened now did surprise him, for with her sweet face full of anger she cried to him:

"She's not your mother! Don't believe them! She's not your mother!" Then she called in such a dear, appealing way, "Eden, Eden!" that Eden's heart almost burst, for he knew there was something she wanted him to say to her, and he didn't know what it could be. All he could do was to whisper "Dear, dear," in his soft, little voice, and again she cried to him, with a very anguish of appeal, "Darling Eden!" and all he could answer was "Darling," and when he saw how sad she looked, and how all the gladness was gone from her eyes, he almost sobbed himself, as he said:

"Please don't cry! You mustn't cry!"

He felt so sorry for her that he spent the next few minutes swallowing his tears, while she sat there pale and silent beside him. It seemed to Eden that though she was beside him she was a long way off, as grown-up people so often are, when they are thinking about the unsociable things that a little boy can't understand. He brought her back to him with:

"Who is my mother, if she isn't?" For though he felt inside him that somehow she knew more about things than his father and his aunt did, yet he was used, on the other hand, to believing that his father and his aunt knew everything, as is very proper for a little boy to believe.

"And if she's not my mother, who is she?" he asked quite triumphantly.

At this his friend sprang to her feet, and her face was full of anger and jealousy.

"She's not anybody," she cried. "She's stolen your mother's place. She's made them forget your mother. She's not real. She isn't any one."

There are moments when the simplicity of children makes them wise, and Eden was wise when he answered:

"They think she's real, 'cause they talk about her."

She wrung her hands in her pain.

"They've made her real," she cried. "If I'd only known before!"

Presently as Eden started slowly for the house, she called after him, "My Eden," and though her voice was low and soft, the way she said it quivered all through him, and for the next few days when he didn't see her he tried and tried to think who it was that had ever said to him "My Eden" in just that way.

If he didn't see her, he felt her in the house more than ever before. He felt her in the room even where his father and his aunt sat, and he realized vaguely that something strange was happening, something that he couldn't at all understand. So he stayed out in the garden as much as he could, though it was lonely without her. He wondered if she had seen the calm, white-faced woman he had thought was his mother, and presently he remembered that he hadn't seen her himself since the day he and his friend had talked about her in the garden. And, indeed, since then the white woman had seemed less real, and Eden found himself wondering if he had really seen her after all.

That there was something unusual going on under the calm surface of things every one felt.

"I don't know what ails me, but I feel as if some one was comin'," Maggie said.

"This house ain't right," Norah agreed, and without saying anything to each other, Maggie took her sewing out of doors, and Norah fixed her vegetables on the steps.

Grown people, too, are sometimes afraid of the things that are there but that they can't see, and there was a sense of strain, a sense of waiting in the house, that one couldn't disregard. Perhaps more than any one, Eden's father and Eden's aunt felt it, but since they knew more than any one else in the house, they took less notice of it, for how can you talk reasonably about things you can only feel?

But once Eden found his father smiling in the way one does when one remembers something very dear and very pleasant, and he drew Eden to him and kissed him, and Eden felt more taken care of than he had since the afternoon he had talked last with his friend.

It was as if they all were listening to something that none of them could hear, as if the house were listening to itself, and a spirit of expectancy were floating within it. This it was that drove the simple ones out of the house, and that made the other two talk shyly and about commonplace things. It was almost as if the hands of time had been turned back to the day when the heart of the house stopped beating; there was renewed something like the waiting hush that houses have when some one within their walls is fighting for life. And again it was Eden who broke the magic quiet and set the heart going again. It all happened out of doors, for there was something in the quiet of the house that drove his father and his aunt outside, though they said it was the beauty of the evening that drew them. Eden had been thinking a great deal, you may imagine, about the strange things his friend had told him, and at last he asked shyly:

"Was my mother always good?"

And then it was that the house stopped waiting.

For with a little hug for Eden his aunt said:

"No, but she was lovely, even when she was naughty."

"Do you remember," his father said, "how she used to call to Eden?" He hadn't thought about it for a long time; at first it had hurt him too much to remember, and in time he had ended by almost forgetting.

Then Eden saw his friend, standing near them, dropping her kind, glad look into his eyes, and as she looked at him, the most wonderful thing of all happened to him, for in one brightest moment he remembered.

And in their language that didn't need any words he shouted:

"Darling mother!" and though his aunt and his father didn't know it, they heard him.

WITH ALL HIS MIGHT HE SHOT IT FULL—OR THOUGHT HE DID SO.

The Stolen Bridegroom

A Story of Tainted Baseball on the Far Frontier

By EMERSON HOUGH

Author of "The Mississippi Bubble," "Hazel's Dream," etc., etc.

Illustrations by F. Foster Lincoln

WHEN Frederick William Ware, better known as Runt Ware, left Princeton, he faced life with his usual blithe resignation to fate. Gathering his mandolin under his arm, he pulled his five feet six of affable manhood together, wired for the price of a ticket, and so departed for the ancestral halls, where, luckily for him, fatted calf was daily on the menu.

"What can you do?" asked his father. "Pitch four curves," said the Runt, "and stand for even Lon Byron's delivery. And oh, Pater, you ought to see that fellow pitch! Say—" and he bent over the ancestral desk until Pater forgot to sign his dictation.

There seemed nothing particular for Runt Ware to do in a business concern where everything was already doing, so there was a paternal sigh of relief, albeit a few maternal tears, when once more the Runt with his customary happy smile placed his mandolin under his arm, about a hundred thousand dollars in his pocket, and artlessly announced that he thought of going west.

"Just as bad there as here," said Pater. "Better not."

"O Frederick!" said Mater.

"But," said the Runt, "Billy Hardy is going, and he's no end a good sort. He plays the banjo. We have to go together or the glee business would be busted"; and other collegiate speech, at the end convincing.

Whereupon the Runt ere long turned up, in company with Billy Hardy, at Barth, on the edge of the booming Canadian west, and they two on the second day of their arrival bought up a grocery and outfitting business, of which they knew nothing in the world and to which they paid no attention whatever, but which, to the great surprise of their families, though not in the least of themselves, began to pay thirty-five per cent. from the start.

"My observation of tourists, Pater," said the Runt in one of his letters home, "is that they are three-fourths cash and the other one-fourth easy. You'd better come out."

Since the mountain views were magnificent, and sport was on every side, and the air like champagne, and life in the newly builded bungalow (christened "Stumbleholme" by these twain) was very bachelorish and delectable, the Runt, who ever swam with the passing tide, casually took out naturalization papers, was elected lieutenant of Light Horse in the local troop, assumed an ultra-English speech, and took to wearing fierce clothes of all manner, sorts, and varieties, including mauve puttees and eight kinds of leggings with straps, not to mention a Northwest Mounted Police hat, which in combination with his mandolin, made him altogether irresistible to the summer femininity at the big tourist hotel.

Previous to the arrival of the Runt, all western Alberta was largely under the dominion of King Edward VII of Great Britain. Young men wore caps and knickers and other things during business hours, and went out collecting or soliciting with tennis-racket or cricket-bat in hand. This industrial and social system did not please the Runt.

"Just look at them," he would say to Billy Hardy. "Not a baseball game in the whole time we've been here. This is what I call the hardship of the frontier life. I'll tell you—let's start baseball!"

At this speech the two sat up straight upon their couches at the bungalow and stared at each other in the solemnity of a large inspiration.

"Why, of course," said Billy.

So they started baseball; and such was the personal popularity of the Runt over three hundred miles of ranch lands where his check was very usual and very good, that in the second season there was bitterness of soul between Alberta and Saskatchewan. As for British Columbia, her name was anathema; for lo! the team of Vancouver had manured the earth with everything except the team of Barth, the latter, of course, captained by no less a person than the Runt himself.

In the Barth team were two Royal Northwest Mounted Policemen, Ramsay and O'Brien; one saloon-keeper by the name of Deakin; the local telegraph-operator, Williams; a negro porter by name of Sam, who lay over at Barth between runs to the coast; a highly intelligent Japanese curio-dealer called Itche Ban (though the Runt said it was a shame); a rancher by name of Billings, who once lived in Montana, and a "rawncher" of English extraction bearing the name of Jennings. Also there was Mr. Frederick William Ware.

It was in its way a gladsome sight to see the Barth baseball team take the field and deploy into action. Only in the heart of their captain did any doubt exist that the Barth team was utterly invincible. To Billy Hardy the Runt confided his own bitter conviction that they were a bunch of the most abject dubs ever assembled under the protecting wings of any nation of the globe.

"Look at 'em!" he hissed between his teeth, as he and Billy approached the field and cast their gaze upon the mixed multitude. "Look at 'em! O Gawd!"

News came to Barth of the standing of all the clubs on the provincial circuit, and always the name of Vancouver led the rest. "Listen to me," said the Runt to Billy Hardy. "Something is going on over there in Vancouver, I tell you, or they couldn't have cleaned up Spokane 12 to 0. I'll bet a dollar they've got a man in from Seattle; that's what I'll bet. Tainted baseball in these new lands of King Edward! Oh, what an age!"

As he said these words, the Runt was mixing something for himself at the sliding shelf of the bungalow's cellaret. All at once his educated and artistic spoon grew more deliberate in its motion. It slackened, stopped. A gentle smile overspread his features. He fumbled in his pockets, and presently spread out upon his knee a crumpled telegram.

"That's from Byron. Don't you see?" he remarked. "From Byron."

"Yes?" said Billy. "Awfully good fellow, Byron, too. I'm glad he's comin' through. We'll meet him at the train, as he says. Haven't heard from him in two years, but s'pose he's deep in business like you and me and too busy to write."

"Yes," said the Runt, "he's doin' law or somethin'. Now here he is comin' through on the gallop, headed for Victoria. Goin' to intercept the boat from Vancouver up coast to Alaska. Awful hurry, of course; but we'll meet him at the train—yes, we'll do that all right."

"Why's he in such a rush?" asked Billy. "Oh, I believe he's goin' to get married or somethin' of the sort. He always was doin' some impractical thing or other."

"Oh, I remember," said Billy reminiscently. "He was awfully gone on Georgie Dinwiddie, that Virginia girl he met at Wilson's house party that summer, you know."

"ALONZO BYRON, WHAT HAVE YOU DONE? WHAT IS THAT BOTTLE?"

"Sorry, sir," said O'Brien, "but this is against the law. Furious ridin'. Have to take you in charge, sir."

"Well, I'm d—d!" said Byron wonderingly. "Well, now I am d—d!"

"I wouldn't talk, sir," said O'Brien. "You might incriminate yourself."

"You are right," said Byron; "I might."

After that he rode in silence beside O'Brien to the door of the little lockup, all Barth crowding there for to see and to admire.

"I say, fellows," began Byron again, as the strong arm of O'Brien thrust him through the iron-barred gate, "this is too much. We won't stand for it. No trial; no desk-book! Why, where is the bail-bond?"

The Runt winked at O'Brien. The latter suddenly locked the door.

"What's up?" cried Byron. "Why, ain't you fellows in it? You started it! Why, you treacherous, murdering, lying little beast, this is a great joke, ain't it? Now, say, how long will I be in here?"

"Till you promise to be good," said the Runt sweetly.

"What's that?"

"Till you promise to pitch for Barth at the game day after to-morrow," said the Runt sternly.

"Day after to-morrow? Why, that's too late," wailed Byron. "I've got to get to Vancouver to-morrow. Can't you see?"

he pleaded, shaking the bars of his prison.

The Runt looked at him implacably. "You will get to Vancouver after we've beat the suffering tar out of that Vancouver ball-team, and not before. Why, man, what's a weddin' against a real emergency like this? Haven't you got any heart?"

The unfortunate Byron could do no more than groan and sink down upon his narrow cot in outraged and astonished anger.

The Runt and Billy, excusing themselves, departed, and sent the following message:

"Miss GEORGIE DINWIDDIE, care COL. JAMES S. DINWIDDIE, Victoria, B. C."

"Mr. Byron slightly injured. Detained in hospital here. Accident. Not serious. No occasion alarm. Sleeping quietly. Asks you come on at once. Answer."

FREDERICK WILLIAM WARE."

Before bedtime messages began to arrive, all addressed to Frederick William Ware, all signed "Georgie Weston Dinwiddie." No. 1 said: "Much alarmed. Send details at once." Ten minutes later No. 2 asked: "Why no details? Situation urgent. Impossible to come." In five minutes No. 3 stated: "Cannot stand suspense. Must know." No. 4, apparently three minutes later, said: "Start east thirty. Give him my love. Tell him bear up until I arrive."

"Confound it!" said the Runt, turning out of bed at 3 A.M. to read the last message. "I don't see why that girl can't keep calm. She'll come on now sheddin' tears and telegrams all down the road; and, by Jove! I'll bet she'll be here on the same train with the Vancouver nine. Think of that!"

It was as the Runt had said. When the east-bound Imperial Flier rolled into town, it bore a shouting, stalwart, piratical band of youths, whose bosoms disported a large red lettered V. B. C. and who carried at their head a broom and eke thereto a spotted bull pup. It bore also a somewhat disheveled and tearful but undeniably desperately handsome girl with big eyes and hair in thick brown coils, and a frock that evidently had come from somewhere.

The Runt gasped. "We're in, Billy!" he hissed. "I'm scared now." Then he stretched out his hand. "My dear Miss Dinwiddie!" he exclaimed. "How glad we are! This suspense! Knew how you'd feel. Not the least occasion in the world for anxiety. Wants to see you, of course. You see, I've sort of heard about it, and, by Jove, don't I congratulate him, though! This is Mr. Hardy, also a friend of Mr. Byron. We both knew him years back."

When he finished speaking, they had stepped into a waiting carriage, and a few moments later they were in front of a building wherein lay a situation of perplexity to any one but a man truly fit for leadership.

"This doesn't look like a hospital," said Miss Dinwiddie. "But tell me, is he much hurt? Will he know me?"

"Well, I would, if I had ever seen you once," said the Runt gravely.

She entered the narrow corridor, trembling. Then swiftly her eyes took in the details of the barred door, the tiny window, the straw upon the floor, the narrow cot, the forlorn figure that turned swiftly and sat erect, the bottle and siphon near by (gift of O'Brien, sergeant of the Northwest Mounted Police, who, after all, had a heart). Georgie Dinwiddie looked at these things and at the central figure, with woman's resentment that he showed no injury.

"Alonzo Byron," she said, "what have you done? What is that bottle? Tell me this instant."

Byron sprang to the bars. "Kiss me, Georgie!" he exclaimed, forgetful.

"Hardened wretch!" remarked the Runt sotto voce to Billy Hardy.

"That bottle!" repeated Georgie Dinwiddie. "Ah, I see it all!"

"That? Oh!" convulsively exclaimed Byron. "Why, that's for—insects! Oh, Georgie, get me out of this."

"Come away," whispered the Runt to the girl. "He's wanderin' again."

In the parlor at the summer hotel Georgie Dinwiddie and Frederick William Ware held earnest converse. "So it is for this you have put me in such a position!" she exclaimed, her eyes flashing. "For the sake of winning a beastly little ball-game!"

"Well, of course, I don't know that he can win the game," began the Runt.

"Of course he could win. Why, I've seen him blank the Pittsburgs two straight in the same day," retorted Georgie hotly. "I've seen him hold Columbia down to three hits—win a little sand-lot ball-game with a team of scrubs that couldn't qualify in St. Paul. For this you put me in this kind of a situation! I didn't stop to think. I thought he was hurt. My uncle doesn't know where I am. Why, I couldn't marry Alonzo Byron now. He would think I was following him around. I'll never forgive you—never."

"You can marry him after the game, if you want to," said the Runt tentatively.

"I'll never marry him!"

"THEN," SAID THE RUNT SWEETLY, "I'LL MARRY YOU MYSELF."

"Then," said the Runt sweetly, "that's all right. I'll marry you myself, if you say so. There'll be a weddin' all right. I've never said that to another girl in my life, Miss Dinwiddie. But I never did intend to prevent any weddin' that was already arranged. My position just is that it's no harm to postpone a marriage in case of anything more important—any act of God—that sort of thing."

The girl gazed at him in open-eyed astonishment.

"I'll tell you what I think," went on the Runt. "If you were any sort of Yankee girl at all, you'd use your influence to get Byron to pitch in this game. I know well enough you've seen a game or so yourself."

"But I'll not be bulldozed into doing anything," retorted Georgie Dinwiddie, with spirit.

"Then, madam"—and the Runt's voice was firm—"the prisoner is in the hands of British Justice, and that is no light thing here, as it is in Pittsburgh. I should dislike to see you in the adjoining cell."

The girl sank back upon the divan in perturbation.

"Will you ask him?" said the Runt.

"Yes, yes, oh, yes, I will—I'll do anything."

"Will you marry my friend, Mr. Byron, after this game is won, Miss Dinwiddie?"

"Yes, yes, oh, yes!" with sobs.

"And will you explain to him, Miss Dinwiddie, that unless he does win this game, there isn't goin' to be any wedding?"

"You brute! Yes, yes!" (Sobs.)

Later, the hypnotic eye of Frederick William Ware actually held Byron quiet behind the bars while the former made explanation.

"She'll be in the grand stand back of you, old man," said he. "You know she likes a good bit of ball as well as you or I. You come out in the Barth uniform to-morrow about 3.30. You let those howlin' derbies put up their best B. C. antediluvian baseball for a few turns. Work 'em! Jolly 'em! Fool with 'em! Play with 'em! And then, by all the saints, just turn loose for old Nassau, and give these ignorant, benighted Britons a touch of baseball as she is did. Oh, do it, By! Do it! If you will, I'll see you married before you leave this town. I'll be your best man. Billy'll be usher. And if you don't, why, by the Lord! you stay in jail, and I'll marry the girl myself. Your case will linger in the courts till it gets to the Home Office in Great Britain. I wouldn't squeeze a man—much less a girl—I mean coerce, you know—but these are the terms: I run this town."

Byron sat on the edge of his cot, his head in his hands, for some time.

"Oh, well," said he after a while, slowly. "Oh, well!"

IV

THERE were two attractions in Barth on the following afternoon. One was the baseball game, and the other was Georgie Dinwiddie. That young woman presented certain problems even to the analytic mind of Frederick William Ware. How she accomplished it none might say, yet she was as the lilies of the field in wardrobe. Her hat was of the latest, also evidently from somewhere. Her veil was exquisite, her gloves brand-new, her boots bright, her red scarf really tied. Her face was the picture of repose and calm, yet withal so fair that men grew alarmed as they gazed.

"My, ain't she easy to look at?" whispered the Runt to Billy.

They led Byron on the field in full uniform two minutes before the game was called. The prisoner dared not look up at the grand stand. He felt rather than saw the presence in the sanctuary back of the protecting net.

The toss-up put Barth at the bat, which pleased the Runt, who was anxious to study Bingham, the Vancouver importation in the pitcher's box. The latter went about his work with superciliousness, striking out O'Brien and the highly intelligent Jap in one-two order. Barth's face fell as Jennings, who played third, followed these with empty hands and Vancouver came trooping in with sneering cheers.

Byron, between O'Brien and Ramsay of the Northwest Mounted Police, walked to the pitcher's box with methodical step. His long figure carried his flannels well. He pulled down his cap over his face, kicked about in the dust till he got his bearings, turned the ball for a twist or so, and then passed an easy one over to Salters, captain for Vancouver. The latter struck it so vicious a blow amidsthips that it sailed past the third baseman so far that the latter got lost in trying to find it. The pride of Vancouver was too deep for articulate speech. The nine simply looked at one another. Upon the face of the girl behind the net there froze a swift look of horror, of incredulity. She moved down a seat or so toward the front.

Welton went to the bat for Vancouver. "Strike one!" tolled the umpire; and again, "Strike two!" The face behind the net brightened. But how was this? At the next instant Welton also caught the ball full, and made second with mocking ease. Another Vancouver man got to first. Was Byron,

'03—the Man with the Braided Arm—going to pieces? The Runt grew anxious. Georgie Dinwiddie sat in a cold trance, her hands tight clasped in her lap.

Vancouver scored two more. With dull surprise Byron had seen three men steal around him, and with loud exultation beat upon the shoulders of their friends and shout about odds and cry out baseball insult to him—Byron!—Princeton, '03, in whose hand had lain the whitewash-brush of humiliation many a time and oft. Byron was as one in a trance and scarce wist what was toward. There had come to him the sudden thought that this was his wedding-day and that he could not be married—yet there was she!—He scarcely knew when the inning ended.

When Byron was escorted to his seat at the bench near the net he heard something behind him, something like a sob. Then he flung discretion to the winds, and turned swiftly.

"Georgie!" he cried, "tell me, are you broken up over this beastly business? It wasn't my fault. I couldn't come."

"Oh, it isn't that," sobbed Georgie Dinwiddie. "It's not that! I'm sorry to lose you, but that isn't it—that was such rotten ball! Alonzo Byron, do that again, and I won't marry you; not if you were the last man in the world!"

Secrecy was impossible at this interview. "Bully girl!" cried the Runt, with enthusiasm. Then he and Billy Hardy and Sergeant O'Brien and others arose and stood in line before Byron, '03.

"Do that again, and she'll not marry you!" they chanted soulfully.

The rude men from Vancouver also arose and stood in line, derisively chanting as well: "Do that again and she'll not marry you!"

"This," said the captain of Vancouver, confidentially to the circumambient air, "is what I call easy!"

A white, hard face was thrust close up against his. A glittering gray eye looked coldly into his own.

"It's what you call easy, is it, you lubber?" hissed Byron. "Now, look here, I'll just bet you five hundred to one that you yourself never get to first again. I'll bet you the same your team doesn't get another run. I'll make it the same, by gad! that not two of you ever get as far as second. Pitch! Why, confound your souls, I'm just playing with you children!"

"Is that so?" sneered Vancouver's captain.

"It is the soest sort of so!" retorted Byron hotly, rolling the sleeve back over a corded arm as he spoke. "By the Lord! if ever I did whitewash any poor suffering lot of infants, it's going to be you benighted Eskimos right here!"

Byron later said he was pitching for Georgie. The Runt said he had forgotten all about everything but baseball at the time. In any event, it was baseball that he pitched.

"YOU DEAR BOY!" SAID GEORGIE, AND KISSED HIM OPENLY AND IN PUBLIC.

It chanced that Salters, the Vancouver captain, came first to the bat. He swung back, and concentrated every fiber of his being as he saw an easy, slow, straight ball come sailing in as big as a balloon and as slow as a fat hen. With all his might he smote it full—or thought he did so. There was no resistance, and he gazed wildly about in the upper air. In reality the ball had changed its mind. It dropped a few feet in front of him and rolled softly and aimlessly in. "Strike one!" chanted the umpire.

The Vancouver man braced again for a clean one that came in fast and straight—the sort he liked—good for three bags at least. But some way it rose and went chug! into the big mitten of the Runt, catcher for Barth, whose chuckle behind him gave him agony.

Again Vancouver's captain swung the bat. Why he missed that easy, easy ball he never knew. It had resembled a Yorkshire pudding in size and contour to his gaze.

"Oh, this is easy, is it?" called Byron from the box. "You big dub! Dig out another drugged lamb, you people!"

They put in Sanfield, a good, even man with the stick, and him the captain bespoke in hurried converse. But Sanfield fanned sweet, thin mountain air in vain, and sat down, red and sad.

"Oh, easy!" mocked Byron, now a raging fiend, as the next man came to bat; and thereupon hurled in so terrible a straight ball that the Runt's face grew white, though he stood close up in obedience to the signal.

"Strike one!" tolled the umpire. And presently Vancouver retired to huddle and confer.

It was of no use. Bingham, the Vancouver importation, held stoically together, and prevented an absolute panic, but for the remaining innings the work was all for the battery, so far as Barth was concerned. Once the Runt dropped a straight one that came in too hot, and winced a bit as he did so. A

Vancouver man got first on that. But he never got beyond. The umpire himself did not really know just where the curves were going, and he kept wide of the plate, not relishing artillery-fire.

For the last three rapid innings Georgie Dinwiddie, flushed, her bosom heaving with excitement, crowded close to the net behind the catcher. She saw eight men of the nine mutilate the air with wild swings, slashes, and swipes, emphasized by groans and protests and muttered oaths; but not one got to first. The score stood 8 to 4 for Barth, with hours of daylight to spare.

"Isn't this great ball?" cried Georgie to the players' bench, impersonally.

Byron stood, smiling calmly at his last victim, and tossed him a slow drop with so much back roll that, though bat-tipped, it got scarce twenty feet away from the plate before he had it in his own hands again. He fielded swiftly to first, where Ransom of the Northwest Mounted Police solemnly touched his man out, with "arf an hour to spare," as he explained it.

But before that, Byron, not looking around, had left his box and was making toward the shielding net. The girl met him, flushed, radiant, her nose against the meshes.

"Lon!" she cried.

"Georgie!"

"Why don't you walk around the net?" asked the Runt judicially.

"What is the matter with your hand, you poor thing?" asked she, as the Runt drew off his big catcher's glove a few moments later.

"Nothin'," said the Runt. "Little finger broke, I s'pose. I'm always breakin' it. Maybe she's tore a little. They came a trifle warm in the fifth inning."

"You dear boy!" said Georgie, and kissed him openly and in public, while Byron wrung his other hand.

"It was great!" said Georgie again, looking with pride into Byron's eyes. Then suddenly she grew rosy and silent.

Byron, '03, started as though suddenly thinking of something he had forgotten.

"That's so!" said he.

RODE 350 MILES ACROSS THE PRAIRIE

It was a long procession that started from Custer Trail, plunging through the Little Missouri and churning its turbid waters into foam, and then winding through the cottonwoods into the level bottoms, the Bad Lands buttes and the alluringly the horizon with shapes quaint and curious. "First galloped a dozen adventurous spirits who led the trail," he said. "The rest of them came the wagons, the teams on a tail-swing, followed by the more sedate members of the expedition with bankers of silver and dollars. Finally led by my 'A' men, their horses all over the prairie, frightening the prairie dogs head over heels in their holes and chasing the sheep and cattle into some draw or coulee. Half a mile back came the 'caveyward', composed of the 'B' men and horses. Then came the 'C' men, with a few word callads, and means a band of broken horses driven behind parry on the march. Curs had horses many colors and many brands, and some were such as 'Spitters', 'Grass Eaters', 'White Man' and other cognate names. I was not prone to wander far from the trail on sudden excursions over the prairie and into draws, and the cowboys riding at a high pace, swinging the quirts and using strong language, over this tumultuous and kicking trail, and a crowd of men would have inevitably betrayed us in presence to the Indian watchers on the distant butte, and the right of the trail lands rising to the right of us.

Asleep Upon the Floor. Everybody tired, and late hours are kept. The stars creep over the tarpaulins unrolled, quite as blankets spread out and the camp goes to sleep. Perhaps some of the young members break out in song, and boys treble join in a ballad about "the little old red shawl my mother wore," but no other voices from unromantic hearts disturb a sound silence and the stars die away. Some unromantic members complain of the hardness of their couches, and contentedly turn over, but the Almighty maintains his sleep on the State. The ground is trampled hard and knobby, and the pillows softer than the ground, of which several have been killed, makes some members wakeful, but after a night of sleep, the silent one of us will conduct sleep on the floor.

Not All Hardship.

But who can tell the pleasures of the morning ride? The rays of the rising sun had dispelled the coolness of the breeze, and the horses leaped spiritedly over the prairie. Sometimes a bunch of antelope bounded away like the wind from the hills, a covey of prairie chickens rose from the sagebrush, or a lot of sagehens scuttled off, followed by a flock of quail. The trailriders, pretty little things. Few of the horses at the broncs' feet as the morning wore fast or slow, or when we stopped to rest or smoke, came fearfully up to our very hands. Nearing the valley of the Powder and the foot of the mountains, we rode from rolling prairie to ranges of pine-clad hills, with occasional notices of singular beauty. A few small, rocky, light, white walls rose on three sides, and pierced by a spring resembling the column of a peaked hut with a lower-like column at one corner, had all the appearance of a castle.

Sometimes in the afternoons the writer, tired by the long morning's ride, unadvisedly took a horse from the line and rode on the high seat of the four-horse moss-wagon. This convenience was driven by the son of John the son of Nimrod, a "broncho-buster" when not serving as chief on round-up, and as much as was driving four "broncs" as most other men would be sitting in the rolling chair.

From the gathering

Getting Their Nations.

"Times day" at the agency had been two days before, and the Cherynema had all gone for the first time to their own nations. A party of about 200 were from Standing Rock visiting and begging, and after the issue there had been a large dance and much giving of gifts. Consequently we must have been very busy on their way home. There were Indian men, women and children, and some of the women were carrying large bundles of clothing and other goods. The men were carrying bows and arrows, and some were carrying spears. The women were carrying bundles of clothing and other goods. The children were carrying small bundles of clothing and other goods. The men were carrying bows and arrows, and some were carrying spears. The women were carrying bundles of clothing and other goods. The children were carrying small bundles of clothing and other goods.

FORTNIGHTLY SMOKER.

The Fortnightly Club held an informal smoker at the Inn last evening, which was attended by the members of the club and a number of the professors of the University who have addressed the club during the year. In addition to the members of the club who were present, the following invited guests attended: Professors Daniels, Axson, Carter, Harper and Mr. Collins.

GYM. TEAM OFFICERS ELECTED.

At a meeting of the Gym. Team held last Wednesday, P. A. Moore 1902, of Bayonne, N. J., was elected captain, and D. H. McAlpin II, 1902, of Morristown, N. J., was elected manager for next year.

PRINCETON-CORNELL TRACK MEET.

The team to represent Princeton in the Cornell-Princeton dual track meet, to be held at Ithaca, next Thursday afternoon at two o'clock, has been chosen and consists of the following twenty-one men:

Sprints—H. L. Mills 1904, W. G. Wrightson 1904.

Distance Runs—H. T. Willis 1901, M. D. Thompson 1902, J. M. Perry 1903, G. I. Cochran 1904, W. M. McCoy 1904, R. E. Williams 1904.

Hurdles—A. D. Childs 1901, J. P. Davies 1903, J. N. Carter 1904.

Weights—K. G. Wright 1902, J. R. De Witt 1904, G. Fox 1904.

Pole Vault—A. W. Coleman 1902, (captain), P. A. Moore 1902, D. S. Horton 1903.

Running High Jump—G. W. Curtis 1902, E. S. Wilsey 1904.

Running Broad Jump—K. L. Von Krug 1901, L. E. Johnson 1902.

These men will leave Princeton for Ithaca on Wednesday morning, at 9:05 o'clock, and will return to Princeton on Friday morning. During their stay in Ithaca they will stop at the Ithaca House. On Wednesday evening they will attend a concert given by the Cornell Musical Club. The first three places in each event will be counted, a first counting five, a second three, and a third one. Gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded respectively to the men winning first, second and third places.

TRIALS FOR THE CANE SPREE.

The date of the annual Cane Spree between the Sophomore and Freshman classes, has not been definitely decided upon, but will probably be held in about a week.

The Freshman candidates are being coached by Coleman, Moore, Barnard, and Bonner. There is every indication at present, that there will be no trouble to get men for the light weight and middle weight events. The scarcity of the heavy weight candidates still continues. The following is a list of the Freshman candidates: Light weight—Byers, Fellows, Miller, Root, Shearer, Wilcox, Riley; Middle weight—Fox, Butler; Heavy weight—Newman and Munro.

No Sophomore trials were held last evening, as only one man put in an appearance.

CANE SPREE THIS WEEK.

The annual Sophomore-Freshman cane spree will take place the last part of this week. At the practice of the Sophomore candidates last evening, G. T. Beaham 1901, acted as coach. The lightweight positions were well contested, but there was only one candidate for each of the other two positions. Following is a list of the present candidates: A. Roche, Jr., A. T. Dear and E. L. Mack, lightweights; J. W. Ames, middleweight; B. Cole, heavyweight.

Six candidates reported for practice from the Freshman class. P. A. Moore 1902, acted as coach. The following is a list of the Freshman candidates: Buyers, E. P. Fellows, J. D. Reilly, S. W. Root, lightweights; G. Fox, middleweight; E. H. Butler, heavyweight.

THE CANE SPREE.

The manner in which the cane spree was conducted last night easily justified and amply repaid any efforts that were made to have the event more orderly and better managed. Certainly last night's experience was infinitely more enjoyable and satisfactory in all respects than that of last year, from the standpoint both of the contestants and of the spectators. It is quite evident that several other improvements might be introduced with advantage, but at least last night's occurrences proved that the spree can be conducted with some sort of order and system, and the method should be continued and improved upon in future years.

FIRST ENGAGEMENT OF DRUM CORPS.

The first engagement of the University File, Drum and Bagle Corps occurs on Monday, October 29th, in Elizabeth, N. J., on the occasion of Governor Roosevelt's visit to that city. Extensive preparation, for his reception have been made by the Republicans of Elizabeth, and it is expected that a torch-light procession will be held with fully four thousand men in line, two thousand of whom will be in the costume of the "Rough Riders."

The corps, consisting of twelve files, six drums, nine bagles, one bass-drum and cymbals will leave Princeton on the 5:45 p. m. train, arriving at Elizabeth about 6:30. The men will return on the "Out" connecting at Princeton Junction with a special train for Princeton. The uniforms of the men have not yet been decided upon. Practice will be held at 7:00 o'clock every evening in Room A, Dickinson Hall, beginning with tonight.

CALEDONIAN GAMES.

Thirtieth Annual Class Championships Won by 1904. University Record for Hammer Throw Broken.

The Annual Caledonian Games were held yesterday afternoon on University Field. The contest was scarcely up to the standard, and the time for the majority of the races was poor. The Class of 1904 won the meet with a total of 68½ points. 1902 was second with a total of 40 points, 1901 third with 17½ points, and 1903 fourth with 17 points. The entry list for each event was large, with a good representation from each class.
One Princeton track record was broken,
J. R. DeWitt 1904, throwing the 16 lb.
hammer 152 feet 8½ inches, breaking the former record of 138 feet 1 inch, which was held by H. C. Potter '98. In the pole vault, A. W. Coleman 1902, and
P. A. Moore 1902, tied for second place; but in the toss up P. A. Moore won, giving Coleman third place. J. M. Perry 1903 finished first in the mile run, but was protested and disqualified on the charge that he was paced. W. M. McCoy 1904 who finished second, was declared the winner.

The summary of events is as follows:
100 Yards Dash—Winner, P. I. Mc-
Elroy 1902; second, H. L. Mills 1904;
third, W. K. Ewing 1904; fourth, W. B.
Gilmore 1902. Time, 11½ seconds.

880 Yards Run—Winner, H. T. Willis 1901; second, G. I. Cochran 1904;
third, L. M. Adair 1904; fourth, A. A.
Smith 1904. Time, 2 minutes, 5½
seconds.

120 Yards Hurdle—Winner, A. D.
Childs 1901; second, J. N. Carter 1904;
third, F. P. Waggaman 1904; fourth, F.
G. McKelvey 1904. Time, 17½ seconds.

440 Yards Dash—Winner, M. D.
Thompson 1902; second, A. L. Taggart
1904; third, W. E. Evans 1902; fourth,
G. B. Woodruff 1904. Time, 54½
seconds.

One Mile Run—Winner, W. M. Mc-
Coy 1904; second, D. D. Ranken 1904;
third, F. C. Wallower 1903; fourth, C.
Lyon 1901. Time, 4 minutes, 44 seconds.

220 Yards Hurdle—Winner, J. P.
Davies 1903; second, W. G. Wrightson
1904; third, A. D. Childs 1901; fourth,
J. K. Savage 1902. Time, 27½ seconds.

220 Yards Dash—Winner, H. L. Mills
1904; second, H. M. Dodd 1904; third,
P. I. McElroy 1902; fourth, W. B. Gilmore 1902. Time, 24½ seconds.

Two Mile Run—Winner, R. E. Williams 1904; second, R. A. Williams 1904;
third, E. W. Guernsey 1902; fourth, W.
B. Mount 1901. Time, 11 minutes, 2
seconds.

Running High Jump—Winner, G. W.
Curtiss 1902; second, P. A. Moore 1902;
third, E. S. Wilsey 1904. J. N. Carter
1904, and C. R. Richardson 1904, tied for fourth place. Height, 5 feet 7½ inches.

Pole Vault—Winner, D. S. Horton
1903; second, P. A. Moore 1902; third,
A. W. Coleman 1902. R. B. Moore 1904, and M. Forney 1902, tied for fourth place. Height, 10 feet 9 inches.

Running Broad Jump—Winner, R. S.
Young 1903; second, L. E. Johnson 1902;
third, K. L. VonKrug 1901; fourth, G.
Fox 1904. Distance 20 feet 10½
inches.

Shot Put—Winner, J. R. DeWitt
1904; second, G. Fox 1904; third, W.
S. Schultz 1904; fourth, Hugh Miller
1901. Distance, 40 feet 4½ inches.

Throwing 16 lb. Hammer—Winner, J.
R. DeWitt 1904; second, R. G. Wright
1902; third, W. J. Montgomery 1902;
fourth, J. C. Shoemaker 1904. Distance,
152 feet 8½ inches.

PRINCETON WINS DUAL MEET.

Columbia Defeated Saturday Afternoon in Dual Meet at Williamsbridge, by Score of 64 1-2 to 39 1-2 Points.

Princeton defeated Columbia Saturday afternoon in the dual track meet, held at Williamsbridge, New York, by a score of 64 1/2 points to 39 1/2. Princeton won nine firsts, eight seconds and three thirds.

The best work of the meet was done by J. R. DeWitt 1904, who threw the 16 pound hammer 156 feet 6 inches, exceeding the intercollegiate record of 154 feet 6 1/2 inches, held by Flaw of the University of California. The shot put, also won by DeWitt at 41 feet 9 inches, comes within 1 1/2 inches of the Princeton record, held by R. Garrett '97. In the pole vault, A. W. Coleman 1902, and D. S. Horton 1903, tied for first place at 10 feet 6 inches, and P. A. Moore 1902, and J. B. Smith, Jr., of Columbia, tied for third place at 10 feet, dividing the point. H. L. Mills 1904, won the 100 yards dash in 10 1/2 seconds, defeating, by two feet, Weekes of Columbia, who was penalized for starting before the report of the pistol. Marshall of Columbia, defeated J. M. Perry 1903, in the mile run after a hard race in 4 minutes 35 1/2 seconds. The two mile run was won easily by R. E. Williams 1904, in 10 minutes 37 1/2 seconds, who finished thirty yards ahead of Richmond of Columbia. H. T. Willis 1901, defeated Bishop of Columbia, by three yards in the 440 yards dash in 53 1/2 seconds. In the 220 yards dash Weekes of Columbia, won from H. L. Mills 1904, by two feet, in 23 1/2 seconds. In the 120 yards hurdles A. D. Childs 1901, won first place in 17 seconds, defeating J. N. Carter 1904, by two yards.

The summary of events is as follows:

100 Yards Dash—Winner, H. L. Mills 1904; second, H. H. Weekes of Columbia; third, H. C. Breseman of Columbia. Time, 10 1/2 seconds.

One Mile Run—Winner, C. Marshall of Columbia; second, J. M. Perry 1903; third, W. M. McCoy 1904. Time, 4 minutes 35 1/2 seconds.

440 Yards Dash—Winner, H. T. Willis 1901; second, O. M. Bishop of Columbia; third, M. D. Thompson 1902. Time, 53 1/2 seconds.

120 Yards Hurdle—Winner, A. D. Childs 1901; second, J. N. Carter 1904; third, Powers of Columbia. Time, 17 seconds.

Two Mile Run—Winner, R. E. Williams 1904; second, J. P. W. Richmond of Columbia; third, H. J. Bartholomae of Columbia. Time, 10 minutes 37 1/2 seconds.

880 Yards Run—Winner, G. C. Atkins of Columbia; second, G. I. Cochran 1904; third, Van Cise of Columbia. Time, 2 minutes 6 1/2 seconds.

220 Yards Hurdle—Winner, J. P. Davies 1903; second, J. N. Carter 1904; third, Powers, of Columbia. Time, 27 seconds.

220 Yards Dash—Winner, H. H. Weekes of Columbia; second, H. L. Mills 1904. H. R. Steeves and J. F. Thompson, both of Columbia, tied for third place. Time, 23 1/2 seconds.

Shot Put—Winner, J. R. DeWitt 1904, 41 feet 9 inches; second, G. Fox 1904, 37 feet 6 1/2 inches; third, L. E. Mahan of Columbia, 36 feet 8 inches.

Pole Vault—A. W. Coleman 1902, and D. S. Horton 1903, tied for first place at 10 feet 6 inches. P. A. Moore 1902, and J. B. Smith of Columbia, tied for third place at 10 feet.

Running High Jump—Winner, G. W. Curtis 1902, 5 feet 7 1/2 inches. W. H. Grace and B. M. Ernst, both of Columbia, tied for second place at 5 ft. 6 1/2 in.

Hammer Throw—Winner, J. R. DeWitt 1904, 156 feet 6 inches; second, R. G. Wright 1902, 130 feet; third, E. B. Bruce of Columbia, 103 feet 8 inches.

Running Broad Jump—Winner, H. C. Breseman of Columbia, 21 feet 5 1/2 inches; second, C. W. Ker 1904, 20 feet 9 inches; third, K. L. Von Krug 1901, 20 feet 6 inches.

CHAMPIONSHIP MEETING

Princeton-Columbia

COLUMBIA FIELD
SATURDAY, MAY 18, 1901

PRINCETON TIGERS FIND COLUMBIA'S MEN PREY

Athletes of the Orange and Black Defeat Sturdy Champions of the Blue and White by Score of 60 to 40.

J. DEWITT THROWS HAMMER THROUGH RECORD

Princeton's young men of muscle scored field and track victories over Columbia's athletic champions in dual games at Columbia Oval, Williamsbridge, yesterday. Old Nassau's boys rolled up sixty points as against forty for the host collegians.

The Columbia team would have shown to much better advantage if luck had not been against them.

In the 100-yard dash H. H. Weekes, the champion sprinter of the Blue and White, was penalized two yards for leaving his mark in advance of the report of the pistol. He failed of first place by inches. Had he started on equal terms with his field he could not have won.

In the quarter-mile run O. M. Bishop, who finished second, was shut out by a college mate, W. P. B. Earle, entering the stretch, and lost much ground. With a clear field he could not have lost.

Princeton's remarkable hammer record, J. De Witt, of Princeton, in the hammer throwing event. He threw the iron 164 feet inches, two inches further than the intercollegiate record. The Princeton Hercules is expected to make a fine showing in the intercollegiate championship game to be played on Friday and Saturday.

The half mile run furnished a surprise. Perry, of Princeton, was the one to be sure winner, but he ran up to 1. His defeat was due to a desire on his part to win both the half and one-mile runs. He ran second in the mile, and quit after running three hundred yards in the half mile.

ANNUAL PRINCETONIAN-TIGER GAME.

The PRINCETONIAN baseball team will administer the annual defeat to the Tiger board team on Brokaw Field this afternoon at one o'clock. E. H. Kellogg 1902, Managing Editor of the Nassau Ledger, will umpire, and the batting order of the teams will be as follows:

Tiger—R. T. Mount, c.; W. T. McIntyre, p.; L. Moore or T. D. Carman, 1b.; P. A. Moore, 2b.; R. C. De Mange, s.s.; G. C. Bakewell, 3b.; S. F. Whitman or P. P. Hibben, 1f.; E. S. McCurdy, c.f.; W. P. Hamilton or E. B. Wilson, r.f.

PRINCETONIAN—J. W. Jameson, p.; A. J. Barron, c.; E. M. Mulock, 1b.; V. H. Berghaus, 2b.; F. L. Janeway, 3b.; R. C. Gordon, s.s.; W. E. Hope or S. V. R. Trowbridge, 1f.; F. L. Wright or W. H. Gephart, c.f.; B. M. Price or T. W. Dinmore, r.f.

TRACK TEAM CHOSEN.

Members of Team to Represent Princeton in I. C. A. A. A. Games to be Held Friday and Saturday Chosen.

The team to represent Princeton in the Intercollegiate Track Meet, to be held on Berkeley Oval, New York City, on Friday and Saturday, has been decided upon with the exception of two or three men, who will probably be entered in the sprints or broad jump. The following twelve men have been chosen for the team:

Hammer and Shot—R. G. Wright 1902, and J. R. DeWitt 1904.
High Jump—G. W. Curtiss 1902.
Pole Vault—A. W. Coleman 1902, P. A. Moore 1902, D. S. Horton 1903.

Hurdles—J. P. Davies 1903.
Distance Run—H. T. Willis, 1901, J. M. Perry 1903, L. M. Adsit 1904, G. I. Cochran 1904, R. E. Williams 1904.

The members of the team, together with Manager J. W. Jameson 1904, Assistant Manager E. K. Large 1902, and Trainer James Robinson will leave for New York on Friday morning at 9:05 o'clock, and will stop at the Murray Hill Hotel. The trials to qualify for the meet will be held on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and men who do not qualify will return to Princeton that evening. The rest will return Saturday evening after the games.

THE PRINCETONIAN-TIGER BASEBALL GAME.

The fifth annual PRINCETONIAN-Tiger baseball game was played on Brokaw field yesterday afternoon, resulting in a victory for the PRINCETONIAN team by the score of 12-9. Only seven innings were played. The score by innings follows:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Tiger	0	1	0	1	0	1	6	9
PRINCETONIAN	0	0	3	0	6	0	12

Time of game—2 hours 30 minutes.

ADDITIONAL TRACK ENTRIES.

In addition to the list of men who will represent Princeton in the Intercollegiate Track Meet, which was published yesterday, the management has decided to send A. D. Childs 1901, and J. N. Carter 1904, to compete in the high hurdles, and R. S. Young 1903, in the running broad jump. No men will be taken in the sprints, and no other men will be chosen for the intercollegiate team.

INTERCOLLEGIATE GAMES

Duffy of Georgetown Equals
World's Record in 100-Yard Dash.

YALE AND HARVARD STRIVING

Trial Heats of the Annual Games at Berkeley Oval—Princeton's Failure to Qualify a Surprise.

Athletes from a score of colleges and universities met in competition in the twenty-sixth annual field and track meeting of the Inter-Collegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America at Berkeley Oval yesterday afternoon, and though only the trials in eleven of the twelve events were decided, the contests were closely fought on account of the fact that half or more of the contestants in each event would necessarily be excluded from the finals to-day. Though no records were broken, there were some excellent performances, chief among them the equalling of the world's record of 9.4-3 seconds by A. J. Duffy of Georgetown. In his heat of the 100-yard run, there were also several surprises, of which the principal one was the shutting out of Myer Princeton of Syracuse, the inter-collegiate champion, in the running broad jump, by H. C. Brennan of Columbia. Princeton and Brennan tied for fifth place with 21 feet 1 1/2 inches, and the latter won in the jump-off.

Another surprise was the shutting out of Yale in both the jumps and her narrow escape from the same fate in the hammer throwing, in which neither although not back was placed, and the only man to qualify for the final was P. G. Brown, who made fifth place.

A particularly good showing was made by Fishleigh of Michigan, who qualified in the pole vault, 120-yard hurdles, and the broad jump. Clouston of Bowdoin was another dark horse who upset some careful calculations by qualifying in the 100-yard run and the broad jump.

As was generally expected, the preliminary battle for first honors was between Harvard and Yale, and was a very even conflict, but contrary to the expectations of many adherents of the Blue, the results of the trials seemed to give the Crimson a slight advantage, as of the seventy-six men who qualified for the finals, Harvard has 18 to Yale's 14. Princeton is next, with 9 men; Pennsylvania and Cornell each have 2; Michigan has 0; Bowdoin, 1; Columbia, 2; Georgetown, 2; New York University, 1; and Syracuse, 1.

While victory depends upon the ability of a team and not upon its size, the additional four qualified men which Harvard has over Yale constitute a distinct advantage, as their ability was proven by their obtaining places in the finals, and it will require Yale luck in addition to good performances if the Blue wins the cup to-day.

FEW SPECTATORS PRESENT.

As has been the case for some years past the attendance was very light in spite of the pleasant weather, and only a few hundred spectators made the long trip to the track or hill to witness the games. There was a light westerly wind blowing, which moderated the heat of the sun, and both the track and the infield were in good condition.

The programme of the day began with the trials of the 100-yard run, of which there were eight, the last two being for second men. Only two of them were of more than ordinary interest—the fourth in which Duffy made his record-equalling run, and the fifth, which Duffy of Yale won by two yards in the good time of 9.4 seconds. The first heat of the half-mile run, which came next, was won by Hayes of Michigan, who finished two yards ahead of Ferry of Princeton, the winner last year. The latter made a brave effort to get through in the stretch, but gave out a few yards from the finish. The second trial was won by Hastings of Cornell by a yard from Fanchot of Yale.

Next came three trials in the 120-yard hurdle race, the first of which was won by Clapp of Yale by a yard from Willie of Harvard, in 0.15.40, and the second, lost less than the inter-collegiate record made two years ago by Kramm of Princeton, in 0.16.14, were won by Converse of Harvard and Fishleigh of Michigan, respectively, each by about two yards. Paul Potter of Williams did not compete.

Four men qualified in each of the two trials of the 300-yard run, and the fifth man in the contest was as well. This proved to be J. R. Hunter of Yale, who thus narrowly saved himself from being the third man of the event altogether, as he was the only Yale man who qualified. Harvard got three men in the final—Hunt, who won the first trial; McNamee, who won the second; and Clark. Hunt is thought to be the winner of this event.

While the trials were in progress, the 220-yard hurdle race, by three and a half yards from Lyon of Cornell and larger of Princeton, and Converse of Harvard won the second trial from Potter of Cornell with equal ease. Thomas of Yale beat out Goodman of Pennsylvania by one foot in the third trial. Hallowell of Cornell, making a desperate but unsuccessful effort to force them to a pace in the last trial, and so centered in.

Eight trials, two of them for second men, were necessary in the 220-yard run. The best time was 0.21.30, which is 50 yards the record, and was made by Duke of Cornell in the second trial, who was from Hargrave of Yale by two yards. The latter qualified in one of the trials in second men, as did Lightner of Harvard, who had been defeated by Duke of Yale. This was the last of the track events.

Meanwhile the trials in the field events were being decided, and form was more ruthlessly upset in the infield. The pole vault, which had been won by Duke of Cornell in the first four trials at 20 feet 3 inches, and Pease of Yale, Fishleigh of Michigan, Gray of Pennsylvania, Moore of Princeton, and Smith of Columbia tied for the next place at 20 feet 3 inches. The decision of the matter was taken all the afternoon, Fishleigh and Moore tied again at 20 feet 3 inches, and both were admitted to the final. An almost similar state of affairs happened in the running high jump, in which Hutch and Ellis of Harvard and Jones of New York University tied at 5 feet 9 inches, and Curtis of Princeton and Gardner and Lowe of Syracuse tied at 5 feet 7 1/2 inches. The latter three jumped again, and Hutch and Lowe were the winners.

The pole vault, which had been won by Duke of Cornell in the first four trials at 20 feet 3 inches, and Pease of Yale, Fishleigh of Michigan, Gray of Pennsylvania, Moore of Princeton, and Smith of Columbia tied for the next place at 20 feet 3 inches. The decision of the matter was taken all the afternoon, Fishleigh and Moore tied again at 20 feet 3 inches, and both were admitted to the final. An almost similar state of affairs happened in the running high jump, in which Hutch and Ellis of Harvard and Jones of New York University tied at 5 feet 9 inches, and Curtis of Princeton and Gardner and Lowe of Syracuse tied at 5 feet 7 1/2 inches. The latter three jumped again, and Hutch and Lowe were the winners.

HARVARD ATHLETES WIN.

MORE IN ALL BUT TWO EVENTS AT INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONSHIPS.

First Victory of the Crimson Since 1902—Yale in Second Place—Quakers Badly Beaten—Good Showing by Princeton and Cornell—Fine Performance at Berkeley Oval.

Under weather conditions calculated to discourage the stoutest hearts, the athletes of last Harvard ran true to form yesterday afternoon and scored a signal triumph in the Twenty-sixth annual championships of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. held at Berkeley today. Since 1902, when Harvard demonstrated its superiority in competition on track and field with the best representatives of the other colleges and was possessor of the Intercollegiate cup, which it retained yesterday, the winners of the crimson sash have met with a series of disasters. These setbacks reached a culminating point last year, when Harvard had to content with fourth place with a total of only 44 points to her credit. A change of trainers followed and J. O. Lathrop, who had handled the Harvard boys in many victories, was superseded by John Graham. The tradition that "new brooms sweep clean" was verified, for the crimson was strongly in evidence.

Harvard scored in every event on the program except the half-mile run and pole vault and amassed a total of 44 points, which is far more than Pennsylvania, second premier honors with last year. Without disparaging the other trainers, it is certainly a feather in the cap of Graham, and the remarkable character of a victory is enhanced by the fact that Harvard won one race, while Yale, who proved her greatest rival, took first honors in three of the events. For all-around work the Harvard contingent was exceptional, and the perfect condition of the men was shown to advantage in the quarter-mile, when three of Graham's boys came out of the track were apparently hopelessly beaten and captured second, third and fourth places behind the Georgians. Over 100 yards in addition to the first place, which Clark won, was the mile race, Harvard scored eight seconds, five thirds and five fourths.

It was a crushing defeat for Yale, the more so as the New Haven boys triumphed over Harvard in the dual meet two weeks ago, and until Harvard showed so brilliantly in the trials on Friday the supporters of the Blue were confident of another win. Many Yale coaches were wrong in the two days' work and Coach Clark, the Harvard coach, made amends for his defeat in the dual meet by carrying off both hurdle races, the one of 440 yds. he put up with second place, with a total of 3.4 points. Princeton maintained her prestige by finishing third, with 1.4 points. De Witt, the freshman hammer thrower, and Perry, the half-coller, winning their events for the Tigers.

The greatest surprise of the meeting was the downfall of Pennsylvania. For the last five years the Quakers have been at the head of athletics, with such star performers as Kraenzlein, Grant, McCracken, Orton, Tewksbury and Baxter. Not one of these was entitled to wear the red and blue yesterday and the new blood failed to show a tinge of the quality of the old champions. Pennsylvania was away down on the list, with a total of only 1.4 points, as compared with 10.4 last year, and the nearest Philadelphia university came to a first place was in the pole vault, where Deakin, after dividing the points with five others, won the first medal on the vault.

Trainer John Mackay brought down a picked team from Cornell, including two stars in F. M. Sears, a freshman sprinter, and J. A. Gallagher, the distance runner, who won the 720 ft. in fashion that stamps him as the coming leader, and Gallagher carried off the two-hurdle race, which was the day's best. Previously Cornell had won a first place in intercollegiate games. The performance throughout was excellent, and the weather, though favorable, the changes are that several records would have been broken. The track was thoroughly watered by the rain, and little pools of water were distributed around the circuit when the sun came out. The downpour made matters worse as the sport progressed and the points had spread into small pools throughout the contest. The rain was not so much down the stretch for the 220-yard final, which wound up the meeting. Nothing could be more suggestive of the manner in which the 2200 spectators who braved the rain, and at intervals the well-known college colors rang out to cheer the men.

The local college did fairly well. Sam Jones winning the high jump for New York University, which was displaced as the Columbia took first honors in the beam jump. The Columbia boys lost considerable pocket money over the 100-yard dash, which all the sides. He was highly tried and was well up with the leaders when he cast a shoe and had to run the greater part of the last lap with one hand.

There was a strange occurrence in the pole vault when it perhaps was a record. On Friday Deakin, Coleman, Boyrak and Harkins cleared 10 feet 11 inches, while several others cleared 10 feet 10 inches. The rules require that five men qualify, and in the trial of 10 feet 11 inches, Deakin, Coleman and Harkins were declared qualified and cleared for the 10 feet 11 inches, which they did. The second attempt. The bad weather prevented any improvement. The last work done on Friday, and as the rules say that all who qualify in the trial should be the best of his trials, it was decided that the points for the four places should be divided equally.

Some of the students held that Moore and Harkins having failed to clear 10 feet 11 inches in their first trials, should not be included in this division of points, and Capt. McCracken of Pennsylvania lodged a protest with the President asking for an interpretation of the rules. Harvard's win yesterday places the contest for the intercollegiate cup in an interesting stage. Harvard, Yale and Pennsylvania have won the cup four times. Under the conditions, the cup becomes the property of the college whose boys win the most times in fourteen years, so that a bitter struggle will be expected between the two in the next two competitions which will decide the ownership. This is the second cup Harvard won the first in 1902. The 1902 being the points scored yesterday.

PRINCETON vs. CORNELL

ON PERCY FIELD

THURSDAY, MAY 30, 1901

PRICES OF THE ITHACA JOURNAL.

CORNELL DEFEATS PRINCETON.

Sears, the Ithaca Freshman, the Star of the Dual Track Meet.

ITHACA, May 29.—Cornell won the annual dual track meet with Princeton to-day by the score of 44 to 23. Fast time was made in the sprints, despite the heavy track. The performance of Sears, the Cornell freshman, was phenomenal. He won three events, the 100-yard dash, the quarter-mile run and the 220-yard dash. He lowered the Cornell record in the 100-yard dash to 16 seconds. Berry easily won the one-mile run, but Gallagher, having set the pace in the two-mile, was passed by Williams at the finish. The latter winning easily in slow time. Trainer Mosley held after the meet that his team had done much better than he expected. Princeton captured the majority of points in the field events. Summary:

100-Yard Dash—Won by Sears, Cornell; Young, Cornell, second; Mills, Princeton, third. Time, 16 seconds.
220-Yard Dash—Won by Williams, Cornell; Gallagher, Cornell, second; Phillips, Cornell, third. Time, 32.5 seconds.
440-Yard Dash—Won by Sears, Cornell; Hastings, Cornell, second; Willis, Princeton, third. Time, 1:12.5 seconds.
880-Yard Dash—Won by Williams, Princeton; Gallagher, Cornell, second; Phillips, Cornell, third. Time, 2:25 seconds.
1760-Yard Dash—Won by Sears, Cornell; Young, Cornell, second; Mills, Princeton, third. Time, 5:12.5 seconds.
3520-Yard Dash—Won by Sears, Cornell; Young, Cornell, second; Mills, Princeton, third. Time, 10:25 seconds.

Memorial Service in Alexander Hall. Ex-President Cleveland, Professor Wilson, and Professor Finley Speak.

A memorial service for the late President of the United States was held in Alexander Hall yesterday morning, at eleven o'clock. At this hour the members of the faculty, several members of the Board of Trustees, led by President Patton and the Hon. Grover Cleveland, marched from the library to Alexander Hall. The members of the student body and townspeople were here assembled, and remained standing while the procession entered.

Dr. Patton presided and opened the service with prayer. The hymn, "God moves in a mysterious way," was sung, this being followed by the reading of a brief scripture lesson by Dr. Patton. "Nearer, my God, to Thee," President McKinley's favorite hymn, was joined in by the assemblage, and Hon. Grover Cleveland was then introduced as the first speaker. His address was, in part, as follows:

Today the grave closes over the dead body of the man but lately chosen by the people of the United States from among their number to represent their nationality, to preserve, protect, and defend their Constitution, to faithfully execute the laws ordained for their welfare, and to safely hold and keep the honor and integrity of the Republic. His term of service is ended—not by expiration of time but by the tragedy of assassination. He has passed from public sight, not joyously bearing the garlands and wreaths of his countrymen's approving acclaim, but amid the sobs and tears of a mourning nation. He has gone to his home—not to a habitation of earthly peace and quiet, bright with domestic comfort and joy, but to the dark and narrow home appointed for all the sons of men, there to rest until the morning light of the resurrection shall gleam in the East.

All our people laud their dead President. His kindly nature and lovable traits of character, and his amiable consideration for all about him, will long be in the minds and hearts of his countrymen. He loved them in return, with such patriotism and unselfishness that in this hour of their grief and humiliation he would say to them: "It is God's will, I am content. If there is a lesson in my life or death, let it be taught to those who still live and have the destiny of the country in their keeping."

First in my thoughts are lessons to be learned from the career of William McKinley by the young men who make up the student body of our University. They teach the value of study and mental training; but they teach more impressively, that the road to usefulness and to the only success worth having, will be missed or lost except it is sought and kept by the light of those qualities of the heart which it is sometimes supposed may safely be neglected or subordinated in University surroundings. The man who is universally mourned today achieved the highest distinction which this great country can confer on any man, and he lived a useful life.

Here is a most distinguished man—a great man—a useful man—who became distinguished, great and useful because he had retained unimpaired, qualities of heart which I fear University students sometimes feel like keeping in the background or abandoning.

By the memory of our murdered President let us resolve to cultivate and preserve the qualities that made him great and useful, and let us determine to meet the call of patriotic duty in any time of our country's danger or need.

Professor Woodrow Wilson was next introduced by President Patton, the following being a brief extract from his address:

How still this hour seems! Is it not singular that a nation should sit quiet in its churches in a hour like this, and yet may we not hope that it is characteristic that this nation should sit with still mind

In this place of worship and ask counsel of God what should be done in such a crisis. The crisis is not one of immediate danger to the nation; it is a crisis of spirit, for it seems to me we should make this an hour of reckoning with ourselves. This pestiferous thing that has grown in our soil must have had some air to feed upon and we may well ask ourselves if we supplied any of the air that fed this foul plant of anarchy in America. We had dared to hope that this was the place in all the world where men had freedom enough to think the thoughts that make for law and order. If this were entirely true men would not with dastardly cunning seek the short way of force to gain their objects. And if we have been deceived in that, and may not believe that this is an act singular and isolated which may not happen again, is it not our duty to ask what should be done at this time?

Professor Finley was the last speaker. The following is an extract from his address:

I have here a few small type-written pages to which Death has suddenly given a new and a sorrowful preciosity. They are a few bits of paper, worthless, but for his words upon them, from which he, whose loss to us, to the nation and to the world, we mourn today, read an address in tribute to the glorious memory of the first martyr president at whose side he has, through a week of suffering and heroic endurance, now been laid—in tribute to Lincoln and to that other great statesman with whom he engaged in memorable debate but who, in the time of threatened destruction, supported and strengthened him. The eyes, now closed, in life followed these lines as he spoke the words of eulogy that with scarcely a change might now as well speak his own virtues and achievements. But they carry even more of the spirit of the man than is held immortal in these lines. On one of the pages after a brief personal inscription he has written (and that within a few months), "Your friend, William McKinley."

It gives sad title to speak here this morning that one had him for friend; but it is with no vanity of sorrow that I attempt to say my very few words in his memory. It was no special merit in him to whom this bit of manuscript was given that invited the gift. The inscription is but a tribute, written in the hand of the illustrious giver, to his own largeness of heart and constant thoughtfulness of others, who could think of the pleasure of one who was not more to him than a thousand or ten thousand others.

This is no time to estimate what he has done. Our eyes cannot see with sufficient clearness this morning nor measure with accuracy. We forget tariffs and trusts and commerce and gain in the presence of this death. We can only remember that he who sat at the head of our council board, who spoke for us in the courts of the world, who was ever our champion and defender (even o'er zealous some have thought and o'er jealous of our interests)—we can only remember that he has been stricken.

Whatever our political belief or bias, we have had in his active services an exhibition of dynamic virtues that must make all our political life cleaner. But though at the price of his suffering I think we must all be profoundly gratified that we have more than his achievements in statecraft, more than his great civic virtues, in action, to remember and to cherish. We love also, and what is even more precious, the splendid example of fortitude, patience, self-forgetfulness and faith, furnished in those last days when the garments of state slipped from his shoulders and he lay, the man, the friend of all. If we are not helped by this enabling memory to better individual and collective life, there is little hope for this republic.

Memorial services were held also in several of the town churches.

THE CANE SPORE.
The act of one of the speakers last night in deliberately, and under a coach's direction, breaking his opponent's finger in order that he might win the cane, was to say the least unsportsmanlike and utterly opposed to Princeton's idea of good clean sparring. The cane spore is known to be a rough sport. Because certain things are not prohibited in it does not say that they should be employed or even countenanced. Certain grips are not ruled out in wrestling, but gentlemen never make use of them. If the Sophomore could get the cane in no other way than by bending the Freshman's finger back until the bone broke, he might as well have lost it altogether, for he would still have been entitled to our respect. If necessary, some provision should be made by which such an act should be debarrd from sparring and any attempt at it penalized. We believe it to be the common opinion, after the occurrence of last night, that if we cannot have clean sparring, we might as well have none at all.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON SPARRING.

We the undersigned, as a committee appointed from the Senior Class, have investigated the question of the breaking of a Freshman's finger in the middleweight cane spore, as stated, and find that the occurrence was accidental, according to the testimony of both coaches and speakers. There was no intentional roughness and the manner of sparring did not deviate from former spars. Furthermore, the finger was not broken but wrenched, in an attempt to remove the hand from the cane.

THE SPARRING INCIDENT.

We publish this morning a report which the committee of Seniors, appointed for the purpose, have made regarding the middleweight spore of last week. We trust that this report will settle any misunderstandings which have arisen regarding the matter. At the time the editorial was written last Wednesday evening, it was understood that sprees can be held and be fully as interesting without that grip. The use of this hold, as the incident of last week proves, is likely to cause injury, and the man after being hurt had no other resource left to him but to give up the cane. We would suggest that before the next spore certain rules be adopted, not only governing such a case, but restricting other holds which are known to be dangerous.

YALE BICENTENNIAL.

Princeton's Delegation Organized. Some of the Important Features of the Celebration.

The delegation of Princeton students to the Yale bicentennial celebration will leave Princeton on Monday morning, October 21, arriving at New Haven in the afternoon. Winkler's Second Regiment Band of Trenton, of twenty-five pieces, has been engaged to accompany the men and to march in the torchlight procession on Monday night. W. E. Green will act as marshal, and the parade will begin at 9 p. m., continuing for two hours. The men will be met in New Haven by a reception committee, and will be escorted to a central point, where they will meet the Yale men who are to entertain them. The costumes will be special features, and it is desirable to withhold description of them until a later date. A large banner is being especially designed for the occasion by Miss Van-Zandt, and special fireworks will be provided.

The delegation met recently and elected A. J. Barron as chairman. Committees were appointed as follows: Transportation, W. H. Gephart, E. K. Large, A. W. Coleman; Costumes, H. Herndon, A. W. Kinsey, M. D. Thompson; Music, C. A. Cass, S. C. Reed. Three of the trustees of the University, C. B. Alexander '70, H. W. Green '91, and M. Taylor Pyne '77, will attend the celebration, in addition to President Patton, Dean Winans, and Dean West, of the Graduate School.

The principal features of the celebration are the torchlight procession on Monday, October 21, and the student dramatic performance and singing on the Campus on Tuesday night. It is estimated that seven thousand men in uniform will participate in the parade; and the line, six abreast, will be a mile and a half long. The costumes of the Yale undergraduates are designed to represent some of the most important periods of Yale's history. In addition to the Princeton delegation, Harvard, Trinity and Wesleyan will also be represented. For the mask on Tuesday night, the dramatic association has taken eight or ten stirring scenes from Yale's history and arranged them for stage pantomime. Among the scenes represented are The Founding of the College, The Muster of Yale Men for the Revolution, and The Execution of Nathan Hale.

Governor Taft's body guard, and then, before the long line of blue gowns that marked the classes from '34 to 1900, came the delegations from Harvard, Princeton, Trinity and Wesleyan, wearing the colors of their universities. All were heartily received, but Princeton got the lion's share, or rather the Tiger's. At their head marched a giant negro bearing their banner, after him followed two others loaded with the fireworks that were kept going. The negroes were costumed as Egyptian slaves. The Princeton men, themselves were darning yellow and black gowns, but instead of caps, had on tiger-heads, and when they cheered their hosts the old Princeton yell came forth as muffled and threatening as the Princeton symbol's growl.

EXHIBITION AT NEWARK

Given by the Members of the University
Gymnastic Team in the Gymnasium of the Newark Academy.

The University Gym. Team gave an exhibition at the Newark Academy at Newark last night. The team, accompanied by Assistant Manager C. E. Beury 1903, left Princeton at 5:48 yesterday afternoon and returned, after the exhibition, on the Owl. Although the meet was purely an exhibition, several Newark Academy men performed on the horizontal bar and flying rings.

The University team has been practicing in the gymnasium since college opened in the fall, and the exhibition last night evidenced by its excellence the work which the men have done. The program was carried through smoothly and the Captain and Manager are much encouraged by the marked improvement in the team.

The following members of the Princeton team performed in their respective events: T. D. Cunningham 1902, Balancing Trapeze; J. K. Savage 1902, Club Swinging; R. T. Parrot 1902, and F. C. Wallower 1903, Double Trapeze; P. A. Moore 1902, Baton Swinging; P. A. Moore 1902, P. T. Jones 1902, and H. G. Otis 1902, "Three High." All the members of the team took part in the horizontal bars event.

ham and Captain Albin showed up in fine style, and the finished manner in which each feat was performed was very heartily recognized. The evening's exercises were brought to a close with a joint exhibition of tumbling. R. T. Hinton, W. H. Lamprecht, L. DeSola, T. H. Warner, P. Burnham, C. Kogel and Captain Albin were in first class form for Yale, and their work on the mats was one of the most interesting performances of the event. Captain Moore, H. C. Olla, T. D. Cunningham, R. T. Parrot, Childress and P. G. McElroy displayed great proficiency in the tumbling for Princeton. Prof. Goldie, the oldest active gymnastic instructor in America, who is at the head of the Princeton gymnastics, took part in the latter part of the tumbling, and was accorded a vociferous ovation.

After the exhibition the members of the two teams repaired to the banquet hall in the Princeton Inn, where an elaborate spread had been prepared. The banquet table was strewn with carnations so arranged as to form the initial "Y" on one-half of the table, and the letter "P" on the other. The banquet was presided over by Captain Moore of the Princeton team. Prof. Goldie, Captain Albin and others were called upon for remarks and all responded. Yale and Princeton songs were sung and a thoroughly enjoyable time passed by the members of the two gymnastic teams.

personally bringing his body to a sitting posture and lowering himself almost to the floor perfectly still. These performances caused his finely knit muscles to stand out like whipcords, and to the technical admirer of physical perfection it was a magnificent exhibition. The home team was composed of M. L. Berry and J. C. Larkin, and they did the giant swing with a rapidity that called forth generous applause. T. D. Cunningham of Princeton gave an unusually clever exhibit of rope work. His balancing was fully as good, only on a more limited scale, as is seen in the customary circus. He walked back and forth on the bar, keeping his arms going up and down like the arms of a huge windmill to balance himself. This being easy, he cadded for a chair, and resting the two rear legs upon the narrow bar, deliberately sat down upon it, and resting himself on its back, swung easily to and fro as though enjoying the comforts of a drawing room. His legs, however, continually went up and down as though attached to wires, but the difficulty and excellence of the feat prevented the smiles that would have been occasioned at other times and the Princetonians were greeted with a volley of cheers at its conclusion. He also balanced a ladder on the bar and climbed up one or two rungs, and did all the usual circuslike stunts of swinging the bar back and forth, alternately sitting down, walking a few steps, and turning around.

P. A. Moore, the captain of the Princeton team, followed with a clever exhibition of baton swinging, which would make the drum major of any Grand Army Post green with envy. In Princeton at the usual college parades, Moore is frequently given the position of honor at the head, and never fails to amuse the townspeople with his clever swinging of the silvered baton.

The tumbling was another prime feature, every man being as nimble as a kitten. The home team was J. Larkin and T. M. Hillyer. The Yale lads were R. T. Hinton and A. W. Warner, while Moore and Cunningham did the honors for Princeton. G. P. A. Blyden, a winner in the inter-collegiate gymnastic meet last year, gave a fine exhibition of club swinging, and Savage did the same for Princeton.

The teams in the flying rings were E. K. Peck and W. C. Belcher of the New York University, G. W. Allen and L. De Sola for Yale, and Moore and Orie for Princeton. On the parallel bars the performers were J. C. Larkin and W. C. Belcher for the home university, L. De Sola and R. T. Hinton for Yale, and Moore and Hoffmann for Princeton. Yale, with G. W. Allen and H. R. Wakeman, and the New York University, with E. K. Peck and M. L. Berry, did the sidehorse gymnastics.

Dancing followed the exhibit, the patronesses of the social feature being Mrs. J. J. Amory, Mrs. C. Edgen Anderson, Mrs. P. M. Crousett, Mrs. J. E. Eastle, Mrs. W. J. Granville, Mrs. H. M. MacCracken, and Mrs. J. J. Rice.

BIG NIGHT FOR THE GYMNASTS

Crack Athletes from the Colleges Will Compete for Championship at the Academy of Music.

Princeton Men Seem to Have the Best Chance of Winning—Yale and Penn Have Strong Teams Entered in the Event.

The best athletes from the gymnastic teams at Yale, Princeton, Columbia, Pennsylvania, Haverford, Rutgers and New York University will compete at the Academy of Music to-night for the intercollegiate championship.

The struggle will be very close, as at least four of the teams have a fighting chance for the trophy. Last year Yale won the team cup by the narrowest of margins from the Tigers, only a fraction of point separating them at the close of the meet. This year, both Pennsylvania and Columbia expect to figure in the final result. Both of these teams are counting on the fierce competition to keep down the points made by Yale and Princeton. On paper the Princeton men seem to have the best of the argument, as they retain practically all their last year's point winners.

Princeton pins her faith for championship honors on Otis, Moore, McKroy, Holtzner and Jones. The former is the intercollegiate champion on the rings and the Tigers are counting on his repeating his last year's victory. This will be considerably more difficult, as Penn's champion, Kempf, holds the Pan-American championship in this event. But in any case, the Princeton champion should be placed. Moore was second to Eliason, of Yale, on the parallel bars last year, and he is the choice for first position this year.

Yale has lost Eliason, her champion of last year, but in Albin and De Sola she has two men who are thought to be very fine gymnasts. Last year De Sola was ill on the evening of the meet here and he could not do himself justice. He has been showing great form in the dual meets that Yale has had and recently he won both the rings and the parallel bars against Columbia, scoring 89½ points on the rings out of a possible 90. Captain Albin, of Yale, thinks that he will defeat Kempf, of Pennsylvania, despite the latter's great reputation and acknowledged ability on the rings. When these two men meet this should be one of the highest class gymnastic contests that has ever taken place since the Intercollegiate Association was formed.

Four Gymnasts at the Academy of Music. Yale proved to be the winner, both collectively and individually, although the judges were left to themselves after midnight, a score of persons remaining to "kiss" them while they figured percentages.

The exhibition was poorly managed, and long before it was over the audience left in disgust.

Bright-eyed, clear-skinned, muscular, lithe fellows they were and the entertainment they afforded the spectators brought rounds of applause.

Ordinarily the college gymnasts, unlike the foot-ball and base-ball players and the track athletes, have but one chance a year to shine in public. Last night they made the most of it. Pennsylvania, Yale, Princeton, Columbia, Haverford, Rutgers and the New York University were the competing institutions.

The gymnasts performed remarkable

Society, athletics, enthusiastic men, made and matrons, the colors of eleven different colleges and their respective college yell will make to-night's championship intercollegiate gymnastic meet in the Academy of Music one of great enthusiasm, brilliancy and excitement.

The best athletes from the gymnastic teams of Yale, Princeton, Columbia, Pennsylvania, Haverford, Rutgers, New York University, etc., will compete for honors.

The struggle for team honors will be close, as at least four of the teams have a fighting chance for the championship trophy. Last year Yale won the team cup by the narrowest of margins from the Tigers, but a fraction of a point separating them at the close of the meet.

This year both Pennsylvania and Columbia expect to figure in the final result. Both of these teams are counting on the fierce competition to keep down the points made by Yale and Princeton, while with the individual work of one or two of their men, they expect to equalize the difference between the strength of their teams. On paper, the Princeton men seem to have the best of the argument, as they retain practically all their last year's point winners, while Yale loses ten of the nineteen points scored last year through the person of the club swinging competition. The judges had great difficulty in picking the winners. Out of a possible 30 points G. F. A. Brayday, University of New York, secured 24. W. J. Phillips, Haverford, was second with 23 1/2, and J. K. Savage, Princeton, a close third, with 23 1/2.

Eliason, who is no longer at Yale. He is at Pennsylvania, and were he eligible this year, Penn would probably be an easy winner of the meet, but according to the rules, Eliason will not be eligible to represent Pennsylvania until next year.

Princeton pins her faith for championship honors on Otis, Moore, McKroy, Holtzner and Jones. The former is the intercollegiate champion on the rings, and the Tigers are counting on his repeating his last year's victory. This will be considerably more difficult, as Penn's champion, Kempf, holds the Pan-American championship in this event.

Moore was second to Eliason on the parallel bars last year, and he is the choice for first in this event. Jones and others are good in their respective events. Captain Moore is counting especially on McKroy to be placed in the rings or on the parallel bars.

Yale has lost her last year's champion, as stated above, but in Albin and De Sola she has two men who are thought to be very fine gymnasts.

Columbia is hopeful that Eastmond and Paris will win points in the rings, the horizontal bar and the parallel bars. In addition, Osborne and Benham are looked upon as likely point winners. The former is a great tumbler, and he may score in that event.

CORNBRIAN, Princeton, 22½, second; J. K. Savage, Princeton, 21, third. Penn managed to outclass her rivals the flying rings event. Summary: Paul M. Kempf, University of Pennsylvania, first; V. De La M. Marie, Columbia, second; L. De Sola, Yale, third.

"THE VIOLINMAKER" AND "CAPTAIN OF THE WATCH"

Both Plays Given in a Manner

Success.

Last evening, at St. Mary's Hall, for the benefit of the Bayonne Hospital, two plays, "The Violin Maker of Cremona," by Jerome K. Jerome, and "The Captain of the Watch," by J. H. Planché, were produced before a large audience, composed of those who had both the interest of the popular charity at heart and felt a natural curiosity to see how the local amateurs would compare with the well known Amaranth players of Brooklyn.

The curtain rose on "The Violin Maker," a one-act romantic play, and disclosed the interior of the Italian musician's shop of the year 1750. This was the only scene used throughout the play and always made an effective setting, with its ancient furniture and walls covered with old musical instruments, for the bright, picturesque costumes worn by the actors.

The story of the Violinmaker is of the noble sacrifice of a great love by Filippo, a hunchback apprentice, to his successful rival, Sandro. They are both violin makers, and Taddeo Ferrari, the master violin maker, has announced his intention of bestowing the hand of his daughter, Giannina, on the winner of the prize at the coming contest for the best made cremona. Filippo discovers the love of Giannina for Sandro, and knowing that
