NEW GYMNASTIC CHAMPIONS.

Edward Kunath Breaks the Record for Climbing 18-Foot Rope.

The annual gymnastic championships of the Amateur Athletic Union were held last night at the New Polo A. A. Park avenue and 129th street. The entry list was a thoroughly representative one, including clever performers from Yale, Princeton, Columbia and Pennsylvania, all the local gymnastic organizations and a few of the athletic clubs. The events were decided in the clubs' gymnasium, which was crowded to the door.

In the rope climbing contest Edward Kunath of the Ansheer A. C. of Jersey City, established new figures by racing up eighteen feet of rope, hand over hand, in the fast time of 2 3-5 seconds. The previous record was 3 1-2 seconds, by B. Sanford. A couple of the other contestants performed well at the same game, but they were not good enough to rival Kunath who is an old time performer. P. A. Moore a shapely youngster representing Princeton University showed some really clean work in the parallel bars, but he did not seem to catch the eye of the judges who awarded first place to Buser of the New York Turn Verein. Leopoldo de Sola of Yale, University was a good third.

Buser subsequently turned out for the side horse and easily secured first prize. Kunath earned a second bracket in the flying rings after a very close contest with Knopf, a youngster from the University of Pennsylvania. A powerful gymnast named Rosenager appeared in the horizontal bar competition and after two trials had to retire, having hurt his wrist. Were it not for the accident he would have won easily, as he scored 28 1/2 points in his two attempts. The older brothers of the Knickerbocker A. C. won first and second in the tumbling. In this event Robert T. Hinton of Yale performed well, but he stumbled a few times and these mistakes lost him first place. The summary:

Rope Jumping—18 feet—won by Edward Kunath, Ansheer A. C. Jersey City, N. J. Time, 2 3-5 seconds; William E. Seiber, Knickerbocker A. C., second time, 3 1-4 seconds; P. H. Knopf, University of Pennsylvania, third, 3 3-4 seconds; Thomas H. Rosenager, Boston T. M. C. A., fourth time, 4 1-4 seconds. Kunath's time now becomes the best American record for the length of rope used.

Horizontal Bars—won by E. C. Bredin, Central Turn Verein, with 20 1/2 points; O. Patten, Columbia University Gymnasium, second, with 18 1/2 points; Oscar Fry, Central Turn Verein, third, 16 1/2 points; Anton Jakobs, Bohemian Gymnastic Association, 14 points; W. L. Conder, Princeton University gymnastic team, 20 points; Joe Hochstetler, Central Turn Verein, 20 1/2 points; James T. Gallagher, Ansheer A. C., 20 points; Frank Lier, Jr., Bohemian Gymnastic Association, 21 points; John F. Rosenager, New York Turn Verein, 20 1/2 points.

Parallel Bars—won by Joseph Buser, New York Turn Verein, with 20 1/2 points; P. A. Moore, Princeton University Gymnastic Team, second, with 18 1/2 points; Leopoldo de Sola, Yale Gymnasium, third, with 16 1/2 points; E. C. Bredin, Central Turn Verein, 18 1/2 points; Anton Jakobs, Bohemian Gymnastic Association, 17 1/2 points; Jacob Winter, Central Turn Verein, 17 1/2 points; Frank Lier, Jr., Bohemian Gymnastic Association, 17 points.

Side Horse—won by Joseph Buser, New York Turn Verein, with 18 1/2 points; H. Hinton, Columbia University Gymnastic Association, second, 16 1/2 points; Louis Klaty, Newark Turn Verein, third, 12 points; Anton Jakobs, Bohemian Gymnastic Association, 13 1/2 points; E. C. Bredin, Central Turn Verein, 13 1/2 points; J. C. Smallwood, Columbia University Gymnastic Association, 13 1/2 points; F. N. Higley, Columbia University Gymnastic Association, 14 1/2 points; F. Lier, Bohemian Gymnastic Association, 16 points.

Flying Rings—won by Edward Kunath, Ansheer A. C., 27 1/2 points; Paul M. Knopf, University of Pennsylvania, second, with 27 points; Leopoldo de Sola, Yale Gymnasium, 27 1/2 points; W. de la Marie, Columbia University Gymnastic Association, 23 1/2 points; H. G. Ota, Princeton University Gymnastic Team, 23 1/2 points; Robert Castle, St. Bartholomew A. C., 24 1/2 points; W. E. Sherry, Knickerbocker A. C., 24 1/2 points.

Tumbling—won by Paul H. G. Steier, Knickerbocker A. C., second 27 1/2 points; Robert F. Hinton, Yale Gymnasium, third, 25 points; Oscar Deussen, Newark National Turn Verein, 21 points; T. D. Cunningham, Princeton University Gymnastic Team, 24 1/2 points.

Long Horse—won by Anton Jakobs, Bohemian Gymnastic Association, with 28 points; Jacob Hochstetler, Central Turn Verein, second, with 21 points; Frank Lier, Jr., Bohemian Gymnastic Association, third, with 20 1/2 points; Joseph Rosenager, Bohemian Gymnastic Association, 20 points; E. C. Bredin, Central Turn Verein, 20 1/2 points.

There is no one exercise or sport that a young man can follow in his gymnasium work that will give him as much all-around physical benefit as tumbling. The only disadvantage is that it is the most difficult.

A good tumbler, one who can throw somersaults and flip-flops, do hand stands and stunts on parallel and horizontal bars and the trapeze, must besides being strong have perfect control of his various muscles. He must be able to think and act while his body is whirling unsupported in space. A turn of the head, a twitch of a muscle, a slight movement of a limb, is all that is necessary to perform some of the most difficult acrobatic feats after taking the initial spring from floor or apparatus.

Tumblers in this way learn to use every muscle in their body, and the result is if they keep it up they acquire a remarkably even muscular development.

Of late years tumbling or acrobatics has become very popular in the colleges and in New York's public gymnasiums. One of the men who are chiefly responsible for this is Prof. George Goldie, now of Princeton University and formerly physical director of the New York Athletic Club.

With business men as his material Goldie turned out a band of gymnasts that annually won almost all the points in the amateur championship tournaments. He also taught the young tigers at Princeton, and now it is not uncommon to find business men and college students who can perform with ease stunts that audiences applaud loudly when done by professionals in the theatre.

One of the most difficult things the amateur acrobats try is the "three high." The accompanying picture is from a photograph of a firm "three high" taken of students in the Columbia University gymnasium.

UNIVERSITY GYM. TEAM.

Composition of This Year's Team, with a Summary of the Individual Work of the Different Members.

The University gymnastic team will give its first exhibition of the year in a dual meet with the Newark Academy team at Newark to-morrow evening. The prospects for a good gym. team this year are very encouraging, as it will be for the most composed of men who were on last year's team.

P. A. Moore 1902, captain, has been on the team since his Freshman year. His work is principally on parallel and horizontal bars, the rings and tumbling. He will compete for the all-around championship in the intercollegiate exhibition to be held in Philadelphia on March 21. Albin and Hinton of Yale, Eastmond of Columbia, and Kempf of the University of Pennsylvania, are also entered in this competition.

H. Otis 1902, who makes a specialty of work on flying rings, also made the team in his Freshman year. He won first place in the intercollegiate exhibition last year and first place in the Sportsmen's Show in Philadelphia this fall.

P. T. Jones 1902, who also made the team in his Freshman year, is one of the strongest men on the team. Moore, Jones and Otis have given the "Three High" together since their Freshman year.

T. D. Cunningham 1902, made the team in his Junior year. His work is principally tumbling and on balancing trapeze.

J. K. Savage 1902, made the team in his Freshman year. He has made a specialty of the club swinging and club juggling, which he will give in the exhibition to-morrow night.

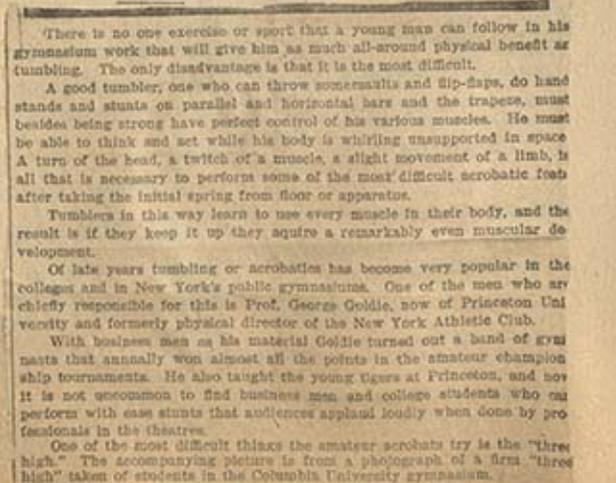

F. Wallower 1902, does strength work on the horizontal bars.

C. W. Holzauer 1904, has shown good natural ability on both horizontal and parallel bars, but lacks finish. He does work in tumbling also.

B. T. Vanderhoef 1904, gives promise of good work on the horizontal bars and in tumbling.

Among the other candidates are, H. H. Langlin 1900, P. G., on the flying trapeze; P. I. McElroy 1902, on flying rings; W. H. McCreary 1902, on the horizontal bars, and A. Childress 1903, in tumbling and work on the horizontal bar.

P. A. Moore 1902, won second place in the all-around individual championship in the Intercollegiate Gym. Meet in Philadelphia, on Friday night. R. T. Hinton, of Yale, was awarded first place.

CLEVER GYMNASTS COMPETE.

College Men in Evidence at A. A. U. Championship.

The annual gymnastic championships of the A. A. U. were held on Saturday night at the New Polo A. A. 12th street and Park avenue. The accommodations for such an important feature were inadequate, and this drawback nearly caused a serious accident in the flying rings. On his second turn De Sola of Yale took a slip, but the space was so small and his feet just missed a spectator's face.

One of the best and closest competitions seen in a long time was in the flying rings, between De Sola of Yale and Kempf of Pennsylvania. The New Havenite excelled in the long cross and hand balance but it was good enough to overcome the excellent all-around stunts of the Yankee. However, only a quarter of a point separated them after the final summing up.

P. A. Moore of Princeton, a graceful performer on the parallel bars, was defeated by Bradlin a Central Turner, and the Princetonian had to be content with tying for second place with Weiners, another Turner. Moore won the toss.

Horizontal Bars—Won by Anton Jaksch, Bohemian Gymnastic Association, with 41 points; John P. Hoesinger, New York Turn Verein, and Anton Meitz, Bohemian Gymnastic Association, tied with 38 1/2 for second and third, and in the fourth won; E. C. Brundin, Central Turn Verein, fourth, 35 1/2 points; Jacob Hatzinger, Central Turn Verein, fifth, 34 1/2 points; W. A. Candler, Princeton, sixth, 34 1/2 points; Otto Palmer, C. A. Middlesex, Conn., seventh, 32 1/2 points; H. G. Vokan, Y. M. C. A., Middlesex, Conn., eighth, 32 1/2 points.

Flying Rings—Won by Paul H. Kempf, Pennsylvania, with 36 1/2 points; Leopold De Sola, Yale, second, with 36 1/2 points; Herbert Canby, St. Bartholomew's A. C., third, with 36 1/2 points; J. Boehmberg, Swedish A. C., fourth, with 36 1/2 points; E. Kistner, Newark Turn Verein, fifth, with 32 points.

Club Swinging—Won by F. Metz, Newark Turn Verein, with 27 points; H. C. Wilson, Middlesex, N. J., Y. M. C. A., second, with 27 points; H. Ziegler, New York Turn Verein, third, with 26 1/2 points.

Parallel Bars—Won by E. C. Brundin, Central Turn Verein, with 36 1/2 points; P. A. Moore, Princeton, and J. Weisner, Central Turn Verein, tied for second and third with 36 1/2 points, on the less up Moore won.

Tilt Hoop—Won by J. Hoesinger, Jr., New York Turn Verein, with 28 points; H. Hogg, Jr., Columbia and J. C. Smallwood, Columbia, tied with 26 1/2 points and Hogg won the toss.

Pommel Horse—Won by Paul F. E. Meyer, St. George A. C., 26 1/2 points; Alfred Hoenig, Bohemian Times Gymnastics, second, 26 points; Frank Johnson, St. George A. C., third, 26 1/2 points.

All Around Championships—Won by J. Hoesinger, Jr., New York Turn Verein, with 160 1/2 points.

Princeton Corral Some Great Athletes.

Jim Robbins, athletic mentor of Princeton University, drifted into town yesterday from New Jersey to do some Christmas shopping and incidentally to unboosen himself on his football and athletic team plans during 1902. He could fill a small book on the Tigers' bad luck on the gridiron, but especially in the match against Yale. "Why," said Jim, "we should 'ave beaten Yale hip with a score of 40 to 0, but luck was against us. But you just wait 'till next year." And here Jim twisted into the prospects of his track team.

"I'll win the Intercollegiate heavy next spring. I've got a distance man 4 is without turning a hair, I've got 'em hand hill show 'em something. 'Ees a seminarian and he'll be here. Hand have got a 'order, a big one, could lose Krauslein or Chase now as 'es only a greenhorn."

Subsequently Jim revealed the cognomen of the distance man. His name is Hogg, an Irishman, the son of a clergyman and a graduate student. The name of the hurdler he would not divulge, but it has been an open secret for some time that Jim had a "find" for the hurdler. He will not be eligible for the championship, but he will be trotted out on every available occasion to give the local timber tappers a taste of his quality.

In the last championship Princeton scored 27 points and were right on the heels of Yale and Harvard. They will have the same men next year and with the help of Hogg and maybe a couple of other dark ones students of the university, Jim's prophecies are Kickerbocker A. C. Enters Many New Men in Track and Field Championships.

The Championship Committee of the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U. met last night at the office of James E. Sullivan for the purpose of passing on the entries for the annual track and field meet, to be held next Saturday at Celtic Park. The most notable feature of the list was the exceptional strength shown by the Kickerbocker A. C. A couple of weeks ago it appeared as if the "cherry diamond" would be among the also rans for the Spalding trophy, but in the interval the Kickerbocker recruiting sergeants have been busy, with the result that an amazing amount of new material will wear the "cherry diamond" for the first time in next Saturday's competition. Foremost among the new acquisitions will be John R. DeWitt, the giant weight thrower of Princeton University, and P. A. Moore, the Princeton pole vaulter, who latterly at any time good to beat 11 feet. DeWitt is eager to meet Flanagan and from the Tiger's recent practice work he should stand a splendid chance to defeat the Irishman. J. S. Mitchell will also sport a cherry diamond, and he should help DeWitt's score in the weights, while Hillman, the boy champion of the quarter mile, will be a valuable aid to DeWitt at that distance.

Other notable additions to the K. A. C. are H. C. Feldman, H. Lomax, H. Danforth, Henley School crack, U. A. Kennedy, the broad jumper of Columbia University, has been added to Princeton's K. A. C. brigade. Meanwhile the New York A. C. has not been asleep and has scooped in a few crackmen. P. J. Gault will wear a winged foot in the sprints and the American jumper, who also represents the New York A. C. and should easily win first medal in the high jump. The Irishman, who is now touring in Ireland and will not be here. Another notable absentee from the list is John Flanagan, the burly Irishman may wait to come in fashionably late, but as his entry has not been forwarded. Following are the names of the new recruits:

100 Yard Run—P. R. Moulton, P. J. Walsh, J. P. Coone and Frank Hickey, New York A. C.; J. P. Foster, Greater New York A. C.; J. P. Jones, Greater New York A. C.

PRINCETON WINS DUAL SPORTS

The Tigers Defeat the Amherst Team by Ten Points—Rollins Wins from DeWitt in the Shot Put.

Special Dispatch to "The Press."

Princeton, May 19.—The Tigers defeated the Amherst track team in a dual meet held here this afternoon by a margin of 10 points. For a while the final result seemed very doubtful. Amherst leading by 4 points until the broad jump and the hammer throw turned the tables and Princeton forged to the front. Most of the events were well contested and the contest was a very even one. The day was perfect and the track was in fine shape. The men were doing their best work.

The two-mile was perhaps the most interesting of the races. From the first R. E. Williams, 1904, Princeton's crack distance man, sprinted out and set a pace that dropped all the Amherst men, save one, and left only his brother, R. A. Williams, as rivals. He finished well and away ahead of the other two, but the hard pace had told on the younger Williams, and he dropped back to third. The pole vault was all Princeton's Moore and Horton trying for first with Captain Coleman and Phillips, of Amherst, tied for third, the bar at the finish being at 11 feet 4 1/2 inches. An equally pretty contest was the high jump, which G. W. Curtis, Princeton, won handily at 5 feet 9 inches.

The sprints were Amherst's stronghold, Princeton being especially weak on short distance races. Boston was much superior to all his contestants, running clear away from all his rivals. In the low hurdles, a clean, pretty race, brought every spectator to his feet and set them cheering. Princeton, came down the stretch neck and neck. Carter was nearly exhausted, but one final rally pulled him against the tape, a dead heat for first place. John De Witt, Princeton's great shot man, was easily beaten by Rollins of Amherst, with a distance of 4 feet 10 inches. This was a great disappointment to the Tigers who have always looked upon De Witt as a pure winner.

The summary: One Hundred-Yard Dash—Won by De Witt, of Amherst, 12 1/2 seconds; Princeton, second, 13 1/2 seconds; Amherst, third, 14 1/2 seconds. 200-Yard Dash—Won by Kavan, of Amherst, 27 1/2 seconds; Princeton, second, 29 1/2 seconds; Amherst, third, 31 1/2 seconds. 400-Yard Dash—Won by Taylor, Amherst, 57 1/2 seconds; Princeton, second, 59 1/2 seconds; Amherst, third, 61 1/2 seconds. 800-Yard Dash—Won by Adel, Princeton, 1:12 1/2 seconds; Princeton, second, 1:14 1/2 seconds; Amherst, third, 1:16 1/2 seconds. 1600-Yard Dash—Won by Cornell, Amherst, 2:24 1/2 seconds; Princeton, second, 2:26 1/2 seconds; Amherst, third, 2:28 1/2 seconds. Two-Mile Run—Won by E. E. Williams, Princeton, 10:45 seconds; Amherst, second, 10:55 seconds; Princeton, third, 11:05 seconds. CALEDONIAN GAMES

Won by the Class of 1904, With Sixty-Four Points. The Summary.

The thirty-first annual Caledonian Games were held yesterday afternoon on the University Field. The contest was fully up to the usual standard and the time for the majority of the races was good. The class of 1904 won the meet with a total of 64 points. 1905 was second with 37 1/2 points, 1902 third with 30 1/2 points, and 1903 fourth with 11 points. The weather conditions were good, although a slight wind interfered somewhat with the runners. The entry list for each event was large, with a good representation from each class. J. R. DeWitt 1904, did not equal his record of last year in the hammer throw, winning this year with a throw of 145 feet. The most notable work of the games was done by R. E. Williams 1904, and D. S. Horton 1905. Williams won first place in the mile and two mile runs, and second in the half mile; while Horton won first place in the pole vault with a vault of 11 feet 4 1/2 inches, 1/2 of an inch lower than the intercollegiate record.

The summary of events is as follows: 100 Yards Dash—Winner, James Phelan 1905; second, G. C. Gantz 1905; third, W. B. Gilmore 1902; fourth, F. B. Martin 1905. University Track Team Defeated by Above Score at Albany, Saturday.

Princeton was defeated by Cornell Saturday afternoon in the fourth annual dual track meet by a score of 77 to 40. The meet was held at the Riedgfield Park track, Albany, New York. Princeton won six first places, one second place and seven third places.

The best work of the meet was done by J. R. DeWitt 1904, who threw the hammer 155 feet and won the shot put with a put of 43 feet 1/2 inch, excelling the Princeton record of 41 feet, 10 1/2 inches, held by R. Garrett '97. In the pole vault A. W. Coleman 1902, P. A. Moore 1902, and D. S. Horton 1905, tied for first place at 10 feet 9 inches. In the two mile run R. E. Williams 1904, defeated T. M. Foster of Cornell, in a close race, making the fast time of 10 minutes, 11 seconds. James Phelan 1905, broke a tendon in his leg while running in the hundred yards dash, which will necessitate his retirement from the track for the remainder of the season.

"JOHNNIE" DEGNAN BURIED

Peculiarities of the Old Princeton Policeman.

His Interest in the Students Recognized by a Special Refrain to the College "Faculty" Song.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 21.—The funeral of "Johnnie" Degnan, Princeton's famous old campus policeman, was held in St. Paul's Catholic Church here to-day.

A large number of relatives, townspeople, and university employes were present at the services. Five priests assisted at the mass, which was celebrated by Father John Callan of St. Paul's Parish, preached the sermon. The latter spoke very impressively of "Johnnie's" long and active service as a university officer, and of the high regard the students always had for him in the performance of his duties. He illustrated this by remarking that after the recent Harvard-Princeton game the students and alumni stopped at "Johnnie's" home and gave him a long cheer.

Among those present in the church were Prof. George F. McCook and Dr. V. H. Henson of the university.

"Johnnie" Degnan, for two score years the campus policeman at Princeton was fully eighty years old, but no Princeton man ever called him by any other name than plain "Johnnie." Perhaps it wasn't respectful, but it was affectionate. His name was associated with Princeton even before the days of President McCook, and it will be many a day before the old "grade" returning for games or commencements will cease missing his familiar figure.

"Johnnie" was an Irishman of the most Irish type. His face was Irish. His ruddiness of complexion was Irish. His voice was Irish. His sense of humor was Irish. Though he represented the legal authority of a severely Protestant institution of learning, he was a devout Roman Catholic in religion, he having brought his religion from his Ireland.

This aged policeman was about the first man the freshman met when he arrived at Princeton. The timid youth would alight from the train and make his way up to the college quadrangle. There he would find "Johnnie" standing, club in hand and helmet upon his head, waiting with kindly voice to tell the youth "the way to the Registrar's office." And so the senior just graduating stopped on his way to the train to bid "Johnnie" good-bye. "Johnnie" was a part of the college.

It is not recorded that this aged officer of the law ever arrested anybody or that he even carried a key to a police lock-up. But he did wear a gray policeman's uniform, with the shield and all—which the proctor, the real policeman, did not—and he was immensely impressed with the authority he possessed. He had two real purposes in life, in so far as the President and Faculty were concerned. It was his duty to take the notices from the Registrar to the students informing them that they were delinquent in certain studies and that unless there was an immediate change for the better, "parents or guardians would be notified." These notices had to be delivered in person. "Johnnie" would knock at the door very impressively and hand the notice to the student as though it was his final condemnation. Sometimes the President would send notes to students telling them of their good fortune in some particular, but to "Johnnie" these messages were all the same.

"The President was after me handin' this to ye, me b'y. O'm that sorry, ye know, but ye mustn't blame me."

And then the lean old form would shamble down the dormitory steps, and the student would chuck. The next time the two would meet in front of Reunion Hall "Johnnie" would look sorrowful and speak encouragingly to the youth. It was an awful thing to him for a student to be reprobated by the Faculty.

It was another of "Johnnie's" duties to ring the college bell for recitations, for chapel, and at 9 o'clock in the evening—the curfew ring. For more than a hundred years the college bell has been rung at 9 o'clock every evening, though just why no one of these modern days knows.

It is another custom of the freshmen around the time of the Washington's Birthday celebration to steal the clapper of this bell and melt the lead up into miniature clappers, which the students use as watch charms. The college keeps a number of substitute clappers on hand to be used in such emergencies.

But "Johnnie" never got over the fact that it was a terrible crime to pilfer that clapper. Nor could he understand the irresponsible recklessness of the youth who would climb to the perilous heights of Old North Tower and pull that clapper from its wonted position. Years ago the Faculty gave up all idea of ever punishing the freshmen for this deed, but "Johnnie" always appointed himself a detective to ascertain just who the transgressor was. The students had an abundance of fun attempting to snaffle him up on these occasions. He never reported to the Faculty the results of his investigations, for it would have injured his pride to do so.

But there were times when "Johnnie" had occasion to exercise the full power conferred by his helmet, shield, and billy. It was on occasions when itinerant musicians or burly-gurdies would invade the campus. As soon as such a person would appear there would be cries all over the campus for "Johnnie." "Johnnie." The cry would be taken up from every window.

Then "Johnnie" would appear from behind Nassau Hall, running. He would wave his billy, and the timid organ grinders would scamper. "Johnnie" would then strut back to his accustomed place on the quadrangle and make a speech to the assembled students about "their infernal daggers."

Many pranks were, of course, played upon the old policeman. Students would assemble in some remote part of the campus, and then suddenly let up a war-whoop for "Johnnie." He was always on post and never failed to answer one of these calls.

It was a great blow to "Johnnie" when President McCook died. There was no doubt in the old policeman's mind that "Jimmy McCook" was the greatest man in history, even if the President was a Scotchman. When Dr. McCook would speak of "me college" and "me boys," "Johnnie" always felt that he, too, shared in those possessions. Old Jimmy O'Griffin, who sold bananas to the students—and has done so from time immemorial—and "Johnnie" were the two oldest inhabitants on the campus, and "Johnnie" appreciated the full value of that precedence.

There is a song in the college song book, serving as a refrain to the "Faculty" song. There are such verses as the following:

Here's to Woodrow Wilson, oh!
Our legal adviser, don't you know;
He says the law's his, so let 'em go,
Oh, here's to Woodrow Wilson, oh!

There is a similar verse for almost every member of the faculty, and at the end of them all the refrain always is:

Johnnie, Johnnie Degnan,
Johnnie, Johnnie Degnan,
Do you want me? No, no, no,
No this afternoon, 'sermon, 'sermon.

"Johnnie" appreciated very much the fact that his name was thus linked with the faculty. He had the greatest enthusiasm for everything Princetonian. The scores of the games always aroused his intense interest. It was in recognition of his faithfulness and his enthusiasm that the faculty superannated him a few years ago. He had a long spell of sickness and was never able to work much afterward. But even after he was retired upon a pension he continued to wear his uniform and was seen daily sitting on the steps of Reunion Hall receiving the congratulations of the students or the old "grade."

It was a pity that "Johnnie" died after the college term ended. His funeral would have been a great college event had he died in term time. There are few Princeton men who were not sorry that they could not be in Princeton to-day and place a flower on his grave.

OLD NASSAU MOURNS "JIMMY"

FOR MORE THAN SIXTY YEARS A FEATURE OF PRINCETON LIFE.

Negro Candy Man of the Campus a Runaway Slave When He First Appeared There—Repaid the Money Advanced to Purchase His Freedom—He Was the University Mascot for Many Years.

PRINCETON, N. J., July 26.—The death last Tuesday at the age of 86 years of "Jimmy" Johnson, purveyor in ordinary to the sweet-tooth of Princeton University, marks the passing of one who for more than sixty years had been a familiar figure on the Princeton campus. He had seen the College of New Jersey develop into Princeton University under five different presidents; had watched the little campus, with its six meagre buildings, grow until it covered an area of many acres and contained scores of buildings, some of them models of modern college architecture; had seen the list of students lengthen gradually from 209 to 1,300. Gray-haired alumni, who scarcely recognized in the group of buildings which now fill the college grounds the Princeton they knew as undergraduates, always saw in him a welcome reminder of the Princeton of the past.

That is why this little old negro, with his bent back, his short, crooked legs, his wrinkled visage, his shiny black pate fringed with bunches of snow-white hair, invariably at commencement or on other festive occasions had a crowd of jolly, generous graduates around his orange and black wheelbarrow; that is why the university authorities gave him the exclusive privilege of selling peanuts, lemonade and taffy on the campus; that is partly the reason why "Jimmy" Johnson is celebrated in Princeton songs and stories. What John, the orangeman, is to Harvard, what "Pop" Smith is to Yale, "Jimmy" Johnson was to Princeton, and more, too.

He had an interesting career. Born at Easton, Md., on Oct. 2, 1816, his real name was Collins. His parents were the slaves of a Col. Wallace, and very early in life "Jimmy" was given by his mistress to her son, Teakle Wallace, who was about the same age as the young slave. Teakle Wallace was a kind master and for almost twenty years "Jimmy" served him faithfully.

His determination to gain his freedom "Jimmy" attributed to his acquaintance with Fred Douglass, which began when he was very young, Douglass being a slave on an adjoining plantation and about four months younger than "Jimmy." According to the Princeton negro, Douglass and he were "pl-p-play boys to-to-to-gether." He told how Douglass used to accompany his master's little son to the schoolhouse in the morning and how, not being allowed to enter the building, he would wait all day outside, listening intently at the door to what was being said within. Even when he was very young, "Jimmy" asserted, Douglass was continually telling his dreams about liberty and devising schemes to escape to the North.

His influence over Col. Wallace's slave had become so great that in 1833, when Douglass visited his master's plantation, after having been absent in Baltimore for several years, "Jimmy" agreed to meet him and run away. But the young slave had not reckoned with an obstacle that lay in his path to freedom. At the age of 20 he had married a dinky girl of the South, and when the time of parting with his side came, he could not go, "so Fr-Fr-Fred went on a-a-alone."

That is "Jimmy's" explanation of his failure to go with Douglass, and if the emotional side of his life as exemplified by his conduct since can be taken as a criterion, the excuse is probably a very truthful one; for the old man was married three times after settling here, and he survived by a wife of 30 odd years, whom he led to the altar in 1866.

Time, however, will work wondrous changes. A year after Douglass had escapod, "Jimmy" summoned up sufficient courage to leave Easton and his bride, under the cover of night, not without assurances, though, that he would send for his "boney" as soon as he was safely located in the North. He kept his word; his first wife has been buried in the old Princeton Cemetery for more than fifty years.

On the day he ran away "Jimmy's" master had given him a five-dollar bill and with this in his pocket he reached Wilmington, Del., on the following day. Here he changed his name to Johnson. From Wilmington he went by boat to Philadelphia and thence to Trenton, where he arrived "d-d-dead broke." The instinct of the future Princeton man in him probably warned "Jimmy" that the Jersey capital was not a safe place for him to conduct his operations, for, nearly the next morning, without a cent, he boarded an eastbound train. The train was pulling into Princeton Basin when the conductor demanded his fare.

"Oh yes, the old negro has ~~and referring to this very important incident in his life, 'd-d-dey was non-no use ar-ar-ar-guing, an' here I is to-to-to-day, Sah.~~

It was on Aug. 20, 1839, that he arrived in Princeton. He was 23 years old. Almost immediately he secured a job as janitor and bootblack in Nassau Hall. Four years of "college life" had passed quickly for him when one day he met Teakle Wallace face to face on Nassau street. His master had been informed of "Jimmy's" presence in Princeton by a Southern student and had come on to claim him under the Fugitive Slave law. The late William F. Alexander appeared for the negro and demanded a trial by jury under the State law. The jury rendered a verdict for the claimant and the value set on "Jimmy's" hide was $550, which was paid by Mrs. Perrott of this place. Thus "Jimmy" secured his liberty.

The students at a mass-meeting later contributed $100 of the amount. The negro afterward paid every cent of his indebtedness to his kind benefactress and he took great pride in exhibiting a book containing a large number of receipts for payments he had made.

In 1855 Nassau Hall was gutted by fire. It was then that "Jimmy" started on his mercantile career. He opened a little store where University Hall stands now. He dealt principally in second-hand clothing. Many stories of doubtful origin are told about him at this period, which were probably better left un told. The Rev. Dr. Henry van Dyke, discussing "Jimmy" in a magazine article several years ago, says:

"He carried on with varying success an extended trade in a variety of articles. He was not so much inclined to trust his customers as he was to make them trust him. He had a wondrous faculty of combining garments with which differed students, for reasons of their own, had been induced to part, into costumes of striking originality; and through his agency many a man has had the pleasure of beholding his favorite pantaloon of the year before united to the coat of his steamed foot, and permeating the streets in very dubious company."

He continued the buying and selling of old clothes for nearly twenty years, but soon as Nassau Hall was repaired, late in the '60s "Jimmy's" health failed for a few days, and he concluded that he must have work less confining than that of janitor. He tendered his resignation to the board of trustees of the university and announced his intention of taking a vacation. The authorities, "Jimmy" would assure you, pleaded with him to remain in the employment of the college and, out of consideration for the welfare of the institution, he finally consented to conduct his candy stand on the campus.

His services as mascot should not be overlooked. He served successfully in this difficult capacity on and off for many years, and so implicitly had been his confidence in his ability to bring a victory to the Tigers that several times he was known to stake $5 on the result.

His death is sincerely mourned by every son of Nassau.

Spirit

WITH this day ends the gridiron season of 1901 for Princeton. If in the dusk of the coming night the mantle of victory falls upon the men of the and sinew who have put up the strong fight for Nassau's football supremacy this fall—it will be well.

If the men of Yale send us down to defeat—it will be well, bitter though it may be; for THE SPIRIT OF PRINCETON will be there if we win or if we lose. The Team has been trained to the hour; for two months coaches and players have worked in unison to retrieve the bitter sting of last year's game, and worked with such success that we believe that We not only Must Beat Yale, but that We Will Beat Yale. But win or lose the spirit will be there. And the Spirit of Princeton does not mean a mere display of dramatic singing and cheering where it can be noted and commented upon and looked upon with approving eyes. It means so infinitely much and immeasurably more than such a statement that those who have it not Weddings.

Moore—Raymond.

Last evening the marriage in Twin City Church of Miss Julia Moore, second daughter of Mrs. Henry Francis Moore, and Emmons Raymond, only son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Raymond of Boston, Mass., was witnessed by many guests prominent in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Elizabeth and Bayonne society.

At eight o'clock, the hour set for the ceremony, the church, with its beautiful decorations and handsomely-gowned women, presented a brilliant spectacle. It was a pink wedding. Bunches of bridesmaid roses relieved the green of the luxuriant palms and ferns that were massed in the chancel, glass, beakers, jugs and bric-a-brac. Miss Griffin of Philadelphia gave a rare carved glass vase, and from a friend in Boston came a pendant, a pear-shaped sapphire surrounded by diamonds. The bride gave her maid of honor a pearl pin. The groom gave his best man a pearl scarf pin, and his ushers diamond pins. The following are some of the gowns worn by the women:

Mrs. Raymond, mother of the groom, was in a robe of black chamois lace over white silk. It was trimmed with touches of lavender velvet. Her ornaments were diamonds.

Mrs. Moore, mother of the bride, was in a chic gown of white mesaline. The skirt was tucked and had a panel of applique lace and the bodice was trimmed with heliotrope chiffon and had a bertha of applique lace. She wore a heliotrope butterfly in her collar and her ornaments were diamonds.

Mrs. Walter Jackson, Boston, was which was adorned with bridesmaid roses against a background of Southern amilax and ferns, while they rested. In the adjoining library gorgeous American Beauty roses and Southern amilax had full sway. The reception room was done in contrast, with soft white bride roses, daisies, amilax and maidenhair fern and in the hall the openwork of the banister of stairs was festooned with Southern amilax and pink roses. Van Baar's orchestra was stationed in a screened veranda and played throughout the evening, and supper was served by Messrs. of New York. The wedding gifts were displayed on the upper floor and were the handsomest that had been seen in Bayonne for many a day. From the bride's mother and sister there was a superb silver service, a tray and six pieces. Her brothers, Philip and Roger Moore, gave a complete set of silver and a dozen silver individual almond dishes; Mrs. Raymond, mother of the groom, a piano and the furniture for the future home in Boston; Mr. Raymond, a check for $1,500; Mr. and Mrs. William G. Moore, uncle and aunt of the bride, gift was one of the most beautiful, a Carrara bust of Iria on a marble pedestal. From the Misses Raymond, silver platters and vegetable dishes; a superb set of white and gold enamel from Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Kiria; an antique silver tea caddy from Col. and Mrs. Angus; solid silver candelabra from Fred Husey of Pittsburg. Among the presents were silver of all sorts, clocks,
