A huli and a puff and Chief Walking Buffalo blows out the candles on his birthday cake. He's 90 years old.

Chief's A Battling 90 On Warpath For Peace

By HELEN ALLEN
Telegram Staff Reporter
"Happy birthday, Dear Chief" rang through the Royal York's British Columbia Room yesterday.

The guest of honor's two lusty blows put out the nine candles on the handsome three-tiered cake.

There would be nothing remarkable about this except that Indian chiefs do not usually have birthday cakes.

And 90-year-old men are often not able to muster enough breath to blow out candles, let alone do all the other things that have filled Chief Walking Buffalo's life lately.

The Chief, who remembers when his tribe in Alberta signed a peace treaty with the white man in 1877, has recently gone on the warpath again.

GLOBAL TRIP

At 88 he started on a trip around the world that took him to four continents, 27 countries and to address 100,000,000 people.

His cause is to build a better world through Moral Re-Armament. It was a group of his MRA friends who gave the birthday luncheon for him.

The Chief, in full Indian costume, carried a chief's staff, and when applause was called for he shook it vigorously.

Strings of something attached to it made a satisfactory rattle.

Asked what they were, he gently rebuked, "You've led too artificial a life. You don't know enough about nature. Those are deer claws."

By AUBREY WICE

It was truly a "Crowning Experience" seeing the strength of character shine through the performance of Muriel Smith at the Odeon-Carlton last night.

She starred in the picture Crowning Experience having its Canadian premiere. At the close, the audience warmly applauded it.

I couldn't help but be moved by Miss Smith's lovely, strong face, her magnificent carriage and that glorious voice which has thrilled stage audiences in some of the world's renowned theatres.

For Miss Smith it was not just another role — it was enacting something she has embraced, Moral Re-Armament.

THE ANSWER?

And the same with the rest of the cast. They, too, were proving their belief in this ideology which they say is the answer to Communism.

The four moral precepts of honesty, purity, unselfishness and love, plus the guidance of God, as initiated by the movement's founder, Frank Buchman.

They accepted no money for their performance. For them, experienced and inexperienced, it was a work of love.

SLAVE PARENTS

The Crowning Experience shows this and it leaves a significant message for the world.

It is based on the thrilling life of Mary McLeod Bethune, a child of slave parents.

She began her life's work teaching a few barefooted children in a crude school built of packing boxes on a vacant lot. In 10 years, a college for 600 students stood there. And Dr. Bethune went on to become advisor to three presidents of the United States.

The cast of professionals and amateurs tell the story of her humble beginning, her trials along the way and the eventual "crowning experience" at the Moral Re-Armament Conference Centre on Mackinac Island.

They tell it with simple humor that brings laughter, with stirring singing and challenging words.

They tell how this famous educator came to re-shape her thinking once she was faced with MRA.

Some Canadians are in the cast, all from Western Canada. Most prominent is 89-year-old Chief Walking Buffalo who appeared at the premiere in Indian dress. His appearance in the film brought spontaneous applause from the audience.

APPEAL

Besides its urgent message, this film has appeal for everyone. If nothing else, the singing, particularly by Miss Smith, is worth hearing.

Songs such as Wade Out Into the Deep Waters, There's Always Room For One More and The World Walked Into My Heart Today, have a spiritual quality that touch the heart.

Ann Buckles, who has appeared in major productions on Broadway, sang a couple of production numbers and gave strong support to Muriel Smith.

One song the audience is sure to remember is God Walks These Halls, sung by Louis Byles, now practicing law in the West Indies.

All through the picture is a simple folk melody, Sweet Potato Pie, that the children will love.

LP RECORD

A long-playing record of the movie's score is available at Heintzman's and The Odeon Fairlawn where the picture is now playing.

The color photography is particularly striking, especially of fields and sky and water.

And more than anything this film brings out the fact that MRA's ideology has captured the support of some of the world's great people. It speaks of men like Ford, Edison, Adenauer, Pershing.

By GEORGE BRETT

TORONTO had another movie premiere last night at the Odeon-Carlton theatre.

Complete with celebrities, popping flashbulbs, the whirl of movie cameras.

But there was a difference. The celebrities were on hand not to put themselves into the limelight, but to focus the limelight on the film, The Crowning Experience.

ITS MESSAGE

Rajmohan Gandhi, grandson of India's Mahatma Gandhi, was there.

The sharp, clear-thinking journalist not only boosts the film as entertainment, but for its message — the unifying force of Moral Re-Armament, to which he has devoted himself.

"People are hungry for a revival of morals," he said, "and want to do all they can to help us. It's no coincidence that in Hollywood, Switzerland, Sweden — everywhere we've shown the film — it has done well. It shows the real hunger for an answer to a desperate situation."

"Previews in the Congo have already changed many very bitter men."

THE DIRECTOR

The director of The Crowning Experience, Marion Clayton Anderson

(she acted in The Barretts of Wimpole Street and Muliny on the Bounty), was also at the premiere — a petite brunette bubbling over to get the message across.

She decried Hollywood's export of sex and violence movies to African and Asian countries.

"Communists are actually using these films against us," she said. "They say, 'That's democracy — do you want it?'"

Monte Blue, veteran Hollywood actor of 500 movies in 50 years, was there, too.

"If we don't wake up we'll be taken over by a very foreign ideology. The Communists confuse, divide, then take over," he said.

Hollywood actor Jody McCrea, son of Joel McCrea, said: "This is one of the few movies I've seen over and over (16 times) because it holds something deeply moving for me."

INDIAN CHIEF

Chief Walking Buffalo, 89, was a colorful figure at the premiere in the regalia of chief of Alberta's Stoney Indians. Last year he traveled 62,000 miles around the world to promote Moral Re-Armament.

Others at the opening and pre-premiere Royal York banquet, were starlet Jennifer Lea; Juliette Laure, whose mother, Madame Irene Laure, is a French wartime resistance hero; and three who appeared in the movie — Marilee and Lolly McCurdy of Amherstburg, Ont., and Vernon Slaughter of Detroit.

As for sports celebrities, they were out in force. There were Ted Workman, president of the Alouettes; Jake Gaudaur, president and general manager of the Tiger Cats; ex-Argonaut Paul Fedor; Maple Leaf George Armstrong; former Alouette and Tiger Cat Ralph Teohy; Ed Bevin of the Tiger Cats and former Davis Cup tennis star Don Fontana.

Mayor Alec Gorshel of Johannesburg (right) honoured Chief Walking Buffalo and his party with a civic reception attended by city councillors, members of the diplomatic corps and other prominent South African citizens. A front page story in the influential Johannesburg daily Die Vaderland called the Chief "a man without jealousy, pride or bitterness against any race or man".

SOUTH AFRICA On Union Day, May 31st, the visiting Chiefs met with four hundred South Africans of all races planning to take Moral Re-Armament to the world. African nationalist leaders, P. Q. Vundla and William Nkomo presented a skin of the much prized springbok.

Koichi Morita, Chairman of the Japan Student International Conference: "As a bitter anti-Communist I fought the Communists in the Zengakuren. I myself did not have anything positive to live for, so my efforts did not result in the removal of a single Communist from the Executive. At Caux I found what I had been looking for—an ideology that cures bitterness and changes human nature."

Shoel Omote, former President of the students of Meiji University: "I fought as a leader of the Zengakuren because I felt that Communism alone could answer the corruption of Japan. I was ready to give my life for it. The harder we fought the more bitterness and division there was in the country. Through Morita I heard about MRA. I saw that as I am so is my notion. I put right what was wrong in my life and family and was completely honest about my impurity and dishonesty. Anti-Communism is too small and neutrality is of no significance. It is MRA or Communism."

Dear Chief Walking Buffalo,

I am writing you from Los Angeles where we are awaiting the arrival of the "Dragon" force which you helped so magnificently on its way in Switzerland last fall. I want you to know that now and on your 51st birthday, your many friends here in Los Angeles in Moral Re-Armament think of you and of your tremendous contribution to the remaking of the world.

I hear about you from time to time from Billy Hake, Jack Freebury and others. You will have heard from them about the tremendous advance in Africa where the "Freedom" film, translated in the Swahili language, is being shown to thousands nightly.

I do hope your health has been good and send you my own warmest personal regards and very best wishes for your birthday.
